CHARLES H. MOYER ATTACKED
IN HOTEL IN CALUMET DIS-TRICT AND PLACED ON TRAIN FOR CHICAGO.

SEEK GANG MEMBERS

Miners Gather Evidence Which Will Reveal Identity of Alleged Kidnappers—Claims McNaughton Made Threats.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Calumet, Dec. 27.—Evidence as to the identity of the men who last night seized Charles H. Moyer and John Tanner, officers of the Western Federation of Miners, and sent them out of the copper country, was gathered by local officers of the union today. They announced that several members of the "kidnapping" expedition had been recognized and that affidavits as to their identity had been obtained from residents of Hancock. It was generally believed that these sworn statements would be made the basis of warrants for arrest, but decision on this point was reserved pending the arrival here of Claude O. Taylor, president of the Michigan State Federation of Labor, who was summoned from Grand Rapids as soon as the forced departure of Moyer became known.

Much of the activity at union headquarters was centered upon plans for the funerals of some seven victims of the Christmas eve panic.

Deny Moyer's Charges.

Employees of the Waddell-Mahon corporation and local members of the Citizens' Alliance denied Moyer's charges that the identity of his assailants. Only three men employed by the corporation in question are in the strike district now. One of these was in bed suffering from the effects of being caught in a jam when he was trying to escape from the mine after the Italian band disaster Christmas eve and the other two denied they were in any way concerned in the deportation.

The Citizens' Alliance has no formal organization and all men approached on the subject today said they were totally ignorant of the happenings at Hancock. Efforts to get an authoritative statement from any one person were met with failure here in Hancock and in Houghton.

McNaughton's Statement.

"Any charge by Mr. Moyer that I had any part in the occurrence of last night at Hancock is absolutely and unqualifiedly false," said James McNaughton, of the Calumet and Hecla mines, who accompanied Moyer the evening in Calumet accompanied by his wife calling on friends and later walking across the street in their home to a social club, I certainly had no part in the matter at Hancock at the time indicated."

An Associated Press reporter saw Mr. McNaughton in the club about 9:45 last night.

The First Report.

Green Bay, Wis., Dec. 27.—Lying in a berth in a man named Moyer, head bowed by a blood stained bandage Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, passed through this city early today on a C. M. & St. P. railway train, onto which he claims he was forcibly placed and guarded by two thugs until the train reached Channing, Michigan, at 2 o'clock this morning.

Was Assaulted.

"I was assaulted in the Hotel Scott at Hancock by members of the Citizens' Alliance and a man named Waddell Mahon, gunman," said Moyer as he drew the curtain apart and addressed the interviewer.

Continuing he said: "I was terribly beaten and dragged down the streets, threatened with death by hanging and finally placed aboard a Chicago train on the C. M. & St. P. railway about 8:50 last night. I was guarded by two thugs on the train till it reached Channing, Mich., about 2 a. m."

Committee of Fifteen.

"A committee of fifteen men lead by an attorney for the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company named Pecerman had been in conference with me and had barely left the room when more than four minutes, hardly time enough to get out of the hotel, when the mob appeared."

"I believe the strike is won in the Calumet district. I expect to return to Calumet in a few days and have permanent protection, state and national."

Worked Hard.

"I have been trying to settle the strike. The governor and attorney general of Michigan, the latter having visited Hancock a few days ago, acknowledged I have been doing my best to settle the strike. The terms I submitted were acknowledged to be fair. They admit I have kept my word with them, the state officials and local authorities."

Against Unions.

When asked the question, "Is it true, Mr. Moyer, that the mine owners are willing to form local unions, but are afraid to do so unless they are affiliated with the Western Federation of Miners?" he said, "No, it is not true. The mine owners are against organized labor, not only the Western Federation, but all unions. They are against the labor movement in the country." Moyer said he would return to the strike district within a few days.

Union Men Bitter.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 27.—The local union men were bitter in their denunciation of "kidnapping" of Moyer. They asserted that its effect would react on men who planned and carried it out and would tighten the ranks of the strikers.

There was little indication that relief from the committee of citizens would be more acceptable today to victims of the Italian band disaster than it was yesterday. Some citizens reported that they had filled numerous orders for black dress goods intended as material for mourning costumes, but none would admit that these were traceable to relief committee.

No Takers.

That body accordingly was again confronted with the task of disposing of the $25,000, for which it has as yet found no takers.

Despite the unwillingness of sufferers from the catastrophe to receive aid from other than union sources, the work of collecting funds went forward. Every community in the strike district was canvassed by sub-commit-

WILSON REGAINING HEALTH EXERCISING ON COUNTRY LINKS

Rest, Out Door Air Restoring Health of President at Pass Christian
—May Give Thanks
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Pass Christian, Miss., Dec. 27.—President Wilson today slept late and it was after 10 o'clock before he left his room to go for a walk over the course of the Mississippi Country Club, thirteen miles away. For the first time since he left Washington the president had a ruddy glow on his cheeks. He appeared somewhat pale during his recent illness, but rest, bracing air and exercise apparently have restored his health.

Citizens of Gulfport today were on the alert to see him. Mr. Wilson's prowess as a fire fighter has added to his fame here. One member of the volunteer fire department of Gulfport today said:

"I was standing outside the Neville residence waiting for the president to arrive," he said, "when a man came up. He noticed my uniform and asked me why I was standing there looking at the fire."

"Why don't you get up there and help?" he asked. "I told him I could not go up until the hook and ladder wagon came."

"Well," he said, "my men could climb up on the inside. I don't see why you couldn't."

"I was talking to the president and I went inside to help."

Gulfport citizens are considering a formal vote of thanks to the president for his part in preventing the destruction yesterday of the Neville home, one of the handsomest residences there.

CURRENCY EXPERTS PREPARING BLANKS FOR APPLICATIONS

Banking Commission Receives More
Than Ten Thousand Telegrams
For Entrance Under New System.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Dec. 27.—With its plans decided upon for choosing cities for the new federal reserve banks, the federal bank organization commission today turned its attention to the preparation of formal application blanks which shall be used by institutions seeking membership. Although more than 1,000 letters and telegrams expressing the intention of banks to enter the system have been received at the treasury department, every bank will be required to fill out and sign through its proper officers at legal application which can be kept in the treasury archives.

The blank was approved by Secretary McAdoo and Secretary Huston today and sent for final approval to the lawyers of the department.

Secretary McAdoo was still confined to his home suffering from a slight cold, but is expected to return to his desk Monday.

Oshkosh, Dec. 27.—Former State Senator W. H. Hatten of New London who is here attending a meeting of the directors of the Old National Bank, practically admitted that he had accepted the nomination for governor of Wisconsin. He said he would not commit himself especially, he candidly said he would like to serve in the office, not simply for the honor but because he liked the work that was put out for a state executive. He said he would seriously consider becoming a candidate provided his friends felt that way.

LAKE DISTRICT IS COVERED WITH SNOW

First Snow After Record Breaking
Weather Falls in North Section, and More is Expected.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Duluth, Minn., Dec. 27.—Breaking all records kept by the weather bureau here the first snow of the winter fell during the night, about two or three inches accumulating. Medium temperature accompanied the fall and more snow is coming.

Equipment long set up and ready for the deferred fall of the beautiful early today was in commission and by 8 o'clock the city streets were made slippery by many slick bells. The snow extends over the greater part of the northern lake district.

HIGH TIDAL WAVES THREATEN RESORTS

Construct Temporary Bulkheads Along
Los Angeles Water Fronts to Fight Record Tides.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 27.—All the available money was hurriedly loaned for the construction of temporary bulkheads were gathered this morning along the water fronts of the various beach resorts on the coast of Southern California from Santa Barbara to Long Beach, to meet the effect of the unprecedented high tides now running.

The absence of any serious atmospheric disturbances far out at sea, which were present yesterday, lessened to some degree the destructive force of the waves.

MINNESOTA PROFESSOR FAVORS RIGID CONTROL PULIC CORPORATIONS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Minneapolis, Dec. 27.—Prof. John H. Gray, head of the department of political science and economics of the University of Minnesota, in an address at the opening session of the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the American Economic association here today advocated a more rigid government control of all public service corporations.

Prof. Gray claimed that such control was necessary to prevent the possibility of public ownership for the country, he declared, is not prepared.

BUSINESS SECTION BURNED TO GROUND

Guests at St. Regis Hotel in St. Louis
Forced to Leave in Night Clothes
Because of Threatening Danger.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 27.—Fire ruined a five story building in the heart of the business section here early today causing a loss of about $250,000. One hundred and fifty guests at the St. Regis hotel were routed in their night clothes by flames which leaped across the alley and threatened to attack the hotel windows. Six firemen were injured, though not fatally, by showers of burning embers caused by the collapse of walls and roof. The Adams Stamp Company, the Harris Shoe Company, the McKnight Tailoring Company and the Y. W. C. A. down town restaurant were the principal losers.

INSPECTION SYSTEM TO CUT FIRE WASTE

Chiefs of Fire Departments Throughout State Co-operate Says
Commissioner H. L.
Ekern.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 27.—A co-operation that will reduce the annual fire waste by half by means of periodical inspections of property by fire departments is urged by Commissioner H. L. Ekern in an insurance department report made public here. The compulsory requirement of periodical inspections for fire prevention purposes is the first of the kind in the United States and was provided for by the 1913 legislature. In most cities, says the report, the fire chiefs have eagerly taken advantage of this act to perfect plans for inspections which they have already had in mind. The result is that cordial support is being given to the law by fire departments. In addition to the information obtained by the inspectors, the new laws require a report of adjustment of loss and a report from the owner of each fire that occurs on his premises.

During the past two years there have been admitted to Wisconsin thirty-four mutual fire insurance companies, eight of which are now active. The average rate for insurance for 1912 was $1.05 per $100, which is the lowest since 1879, and is six cents below that of 1911 and 63 cents below that of 1903 and 1893. The Wisconsin loss ratio for 1912 was 40 per cent against over 50 per cent throughout the country. For a five-year period it has been 47 per cent against 52 per cent throughout the country.

Discussing fire insurance rates, the report directs attention to the increasing interest shown by the public in this subject, and states that the companies will be expected more and more to be able to justify the rates they charge, and that the data now available for this purpose is neither complete nor satisfactory.

STENSLAND MAKING GOOD HIS SHORTAGE

Chicago Banker Aims to Make Good Balance of Stolen Money of Wrecked Bank to the Depositors.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Dec. 27.—Paul Stensland, former president of the Illinois avenue state bank, who absconded with $500,000 of its funds in 1906, is devoting his life to repaying losses of "depositors." This announcement was made at a dinner of the Association of Commerce last night by James Keeley, who traced the banker to Morocco where he was captured.

Stensland was brought back to Chicago, where he made a full confession in which he charged Henry W. Hering, cashier of the bank, with being responsible for the balance of the shortage of two million dollars. Stensland served four years in the penitentiary. Hering also served a term in prison.

"The banker whom they say I brought back has 'come back,'" said Mr. Keeley. "He went to the penitentiary and stayed there four years, and now he is here. He is a good man and was the happiest man I have seen in ten years."

"He is on his feet again. He has made some money and has taken more than 50 per cent of his lost money in my hands. He hopes to add to it until he can pay off the 15 per cent that was not paid by the receiver of that bank."

"I want to tell you that there is a man who has been in the depths and who has come out again and is making good. He is going to be a citizen again and there is no man for whom I have more affection."

"I don't want to say what the sum is Mr. Stensland hopes to return to the depositors, and the receiver for the bank would make no comment on the former banker's ambition. It is rumored that the amount is considerably more than $100,000."

WORLD'S MOST VALUED POULTRY IS EXHIBITED AT NEW YORK GARDEN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Dec. 27.—A $10,000 hen that lays every day during the "regular" season at $100 egg was perhaps the most interesting feature of the twenty-fifth annual poultry show of the New York Poultry and Pigeon Association, Ltd., which opened today in Madison Square Garden to continue through December 31. "Cheap" fowls both hens and roosters, worth a mere $25 or $125 and on up to a paltry $150 a pound, were shown in profusion. Fowls to a total value of approximately $50,000 were on exhibition when the show opened here today.

"Harts prepared by W. K. F. Price, of Illinois, an egg expert, were banded about today showing that the American hen for the year just closing will have laid eggs to the value of one billion dollars. In addition to exhibits of domestic fowls of all kinds, there was an interesting exhibit of foreign and foreign aquatic water-fowls and rare terrestrial birds. These were shown in an artificial jungle.

There will be a series of educational lectures and exhibits of poultry breeding and farming.

TRAIN ROBBER'S HAT FOUND GIVING CLUE

Authorities Discover Important Clues To Identify Daring Bandit Who Held Up Limited Train.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Los Angeles, Dec. 27.—Evidence, which it is believed will result in revealing the identity and career of John Hostick, the bandit who held up a Southern Pacific train and killed Edward E. Montague, a traveling agent December 1st, was found today at the rooming house where Hostick lived at the time of the crime.

The proprietor says the day after Hostick registered he received a letter from someone in Iowa with a picture of a hotel and the printed name of "Hostick" on the envelope. Whether it was the name of the hotel or its proprietor was not known. The police are trying to ascertain whether the young bandit had accomplices here.

The black derby which Hostick wore when he robbed the train at Elmont, was found in his room. It was purchased in Chicago and under the sweat band was discovered folded strips of a Chicago newspaper, bearing date September 5. In the light of these discoveries the police advanced the theory that Hostick probably is from Iowa and that he came to California only a few months ago.

CAMERON DAM HERO AWAITING PARDON

Federal Judge in United States District Court Hears Arguments on Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 27.—Federal Judge Geiger, sitting in the United States District court today heard arguments on a writ of habeas corpus asked by attorneys for John F. Dietz, "defender of Cameron dam," asking the release of Dietz from the state penitentiary at Waupun where he is serving a life sentence for alleged murder of Deputy Sheriff Oscar Harp during the battle between the "demon" and the "lumber trust" in the northern woods nearly two years ago.

Dietz' attorneys allege that Dietz' imprisonment was in violation of the federal constitution. Attorney General Walter Oswell, of Wisconsin is opposing issuance of the writ.

Dietz was sentenced to Waupun, Wis., Dec. 13, 1912.

VATICAN OFFICIALS DENY WILD RUMORS

Friends of Cardinal Rampolla Declare
Rumor's Unfounded Concerning Prelate's Death.

Rome, Dec. 27.—Officials of the Vatican as well as intimates, friends and relatives of the late Cardinal Rampolla today denied emphatically rumors put in circulation in certain quarters in Rome of mysterious circumstances surrounding the prelate's death. They also declare there was no intention of exhuming his body for medical examination as the cause of death has already been established. The rumors in question assumed to have been founded on the disappearance of a small box supposed to have contained some private papers.

DISCOVERS PRESCRIPTION OF ANCIENT MEDICAL MAN

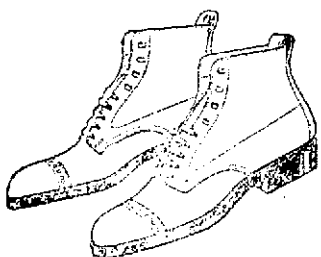

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, Dec. 26.—Professor Elliot Smith, famous Egyptologist, today formally announced the discovery of what he believes to be the first prescription ever written by a doctor. The date is about 2,000 B. C. and the prescription, which is written in Egyptian, throws an amusing light on the efforts of the ancient medical men to deal with acute mania. Some fourteen ingredients are mentioned as the formula for an ointment designed to weaken a patient suffering from mania. It proved too strong for his medical advisers, and the patient had to be anointed fifteen times a day until he was sufficiently calmed to be treated with the usual medicine.

AUDIENCE TRAVELS WITH LYMAN HOWE

Wonderful Collection of Scenic Pictures Exhibited at Myers-Trip by Hydro-aeroplane.

To travel again with Lyman H. Howe proved the pleasure of many Janesville people at the two days' engagement of the film king at the Myers Theater. Christmas afternoon and night and Friday evening. At all three exhibitions the theater was well filled and the Janesville people have all expressed admiration and delight at the wonderful variety of the pictures shown by the Howe company.

During the entertainments the spectators were taken first on an auto ride through the French Alps, where the road runs through deep canyons, past miniature waterfalls and to high pinnacles. The film shown was in natural colors and the delicate tints combined with the magnificent panoramic views was one of the best scenic motion pictures ever offered in this city. The feature of the exhibition, however, was the visit to the Grand Canyon of Arizona, where nature had moulded and formed the most gigantic and wonderful display of sculptured rock in the world.

A visiting A. M. N. school film was shown of the wonderful forms of the deep sea marine animal life, the most interesting being those on a half plant—half animal polyp. The most sensational picture shown during the evening was one of a fire at a large New York wharf where the audience was carried almost into the roaring furnace. Barrel after barrel of oil exploded and the flames from these were seen to leap hundreds of feet through the black smoke, showing the intensity of the conflagration. The study in palmistry and the life of a silk worm proved interesting. The rescue of survivors from a drowned ship by means of a life buoy line through a mountainous sea, was another feature.

At intervals during the entertainment the audience was greatly amused with various comedy pictures, particularly the one of "Tiny Tim and His Elephant." The company plays a return engagement with new films later in the season.

TERPSICHOKEAN HALL HAS BEEN COMPLETED

One of the Most Modern and Best Equipped Halls for Parties in City Just Finished.

Terpsichorean Hall, really the latest thing in way of equipment and sanitary conditions in Janesville, has just been completed in the Carla block at the corner of West Milwaukee and Franklin streets. Located on the third floor of the building, with entrances from both Franklin and Milwaukee streets, with four means of access in case it should prove necessary to empty the hall of its guests in a hurry, with ample fire escapes leading down the sides of the building, light on three sides, it is one of the safest and most sanitary halls for public use in the city. N. L. Carla has spared no expense in making it complete in every detail. The ladies' dressing room is fitted up with the very latest devices for handling the rainy party cloaks, with mirrors for "mi lady" to take the last look at herself before entering the ball room, couches, a rearing room, sanitary drinking fountains and plenty of air and light. In dressing room, the combination boxes, reached easily by means of a traveling ladder, save space and give room for toilet and other accessories. Both these rooms open directly out from the ball room proper. This hall is forty by eighty feet, lighted by windows on two sides and with four large indirect electric lights. It is tinted in old ivory shades, with handsome seats and at one end a raised orchestra balcony, from which can reach the dressing rooms without entering the ball room until ready, either from Franklin street or Milwaukee street. A stairway leads down from the ball room to the second floor where is located a spacious smoking room, well lighted and easily ventilated. On this floor are also located the supper rooms, with a kitchenette reached without going into the cold hallways. The rooms are also equipped with electric fans insuring cool fresh air summer or winter. The halls have all been newly decorated and the whole appearance of the entrances and hall itself are most delightful to the eye.

SERVICES ARE HELD FOR FOREST GOWER

Funeral Held at Baptist Church This Afternoon at 2 O'clock Was Sad One—Buried in Oak Hill.

Funeral services for Forest E. Gower, who was killed last Christmas Eve in an automobile accident south of this city, were held this afternoon from the First Baptist church at two o'clock. Rev. Joseph Chalmers Hazen officiating. A host of relatives and friends were present at the services to pay their last respect to the late Mr. Gower, who was liked by everyone who knew him, as a man of sterling character.

A long procession of carriages and buggies followed the remains to the cemetery, where the body was tenderly laid at rest in Oak Hill.

The pallbearers were: Fred Turner, William Minick, Oliver Gleason, Garrett Griffith, Joseph Summer and John McQueen, all fellow employees of the Janesville Motor Company, of which place Mr. Gower was in business.

Miss Annie Kirby, aged 60 years, passed away early this morning at 6:20, at Mercy Hospital, after an illness of five weeks duration.

Miss Kirby was employed at the Blind Institute in this city for the past few years. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Bernard Dugan, and several nieces and nephews, together with a host of friends.

The remains were taken to the home of her nephew, Thomas Stack on North street, where she has always made her home. Funeral services will be held from the Stack residence, Monday morning at 9:30, and from the St. Patrick's church at ten o'clock. Interment will be at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

TO GIVE A CANTATA AT TRINITY CHURCH

Vision," by Charles H. Gabriel, will be given this evening in the Guild hall of Trinity church by the children of the Sunday school, under the direction of Miss Laura Moberg. The cantata is in two parts, part one representing the children anticipating the arrival of Santa Claus. They endeavor to find a suitable present to give to him as a present to the children.

This part ends with the full chorus singing "Ring the Bells." The solos will be given by the Misses Richards, Uddley and Hendrickson. The second part opens with the infant song "Tiny Stars." The children become weary watching for Santa and fall asleep. The fairies enter and weave a spell over the sleeping children. The fairies, in their gauzy wings, ablaze with diamonds and jewels, will make a very beautiful picture. The infants then awake and little Miss Ridley's solo tells of the fairies' visit. Finally Santa Claus himself arrives and fills the hearts of the children with delight. This part will close with a good night song and a very beautiful tableau, when the presents and candy will be distributed and Miss Sara Alice Garbutt will give a piano solo and Miss Waynetta Hain, a recitation, "Dressing Mary Ann."

PRETTY WEDDING ON CHRISTMAS MORNING

Miss Elma Spencer Becomes the Bride of Clarence Mitchell at Home of Bride's Parents.

Edgeron, Dec. 27.—A simple but pretty wedding was that of Miss Elma Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spencer, and Clarence Mitchell of Edgeron, Oregon, which took place at the residence of John Spencer on Christmas day. Promptly at twelve o'clock the bride and groom, attended by Miss Edna Bowerman of Janesville and Walter Mitchell, brother of the groom, entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Edna Bowerman of Janesville and F. W. Spencer. They took their places under a large white canopy, arranged from the center of an arch decorated with pink and white to match the colors of the bride's gown. Randolph of Milton officiated in the presence of a few relatives and very intimate friends. Following the ceremony a genuine Christmas dinner was served by Mrs. Bowerman of Janesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell left Friday morning for a short visit with relatives in Clatsop, Oregon, before leaving for their future home in Portland, Oregon.

PAL BROWN MAKING HIT IN AUSTRALIA

American Pug Shoves Self in Lime Light by Trouncing Kangaroo Land Champion.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Dec. 27.—According to "dope" teaching local fighters and fight followers, Pal Brown, the Hibbing, Minnesota boy who fought here several times under the management of Jack Dougherty before the passage of the Hedding boxing bill, is making a big hit with the fans in Australia, whether he went with Eddie McGoorty, a month ago when Tommy Andrews arranged to send to the Antipodes a stable of American brawlers.

Brown jumped into prominence right off the bat when he collied off Hughie Mehegan, the Australian lightweight champion. Owing to the fact that the American stacked up as a tyro beside the experienced Mehegan, the betting before the bout favored to one wild the odds favoring the Australian. In the second round, the Yankee turned loose a left wallop that laid the Australian on the mat for the count of seven and Hughie was groggy at the end of every round following. After the contest he admitted that the punch was the hardest he ever stopped and Brown's handlers are planning a big campaign for him when he returns to the states, beginning probably with some good first rate here and continuing—or ending—with a twenty round bout with Willie Hitchie for the championship, on the coast.

Brown is twenty-one years old and has only been battling for a couple of years. He is a clean limbed, husky chap, and is picked by many to go a long way in the lightweight division.

Sport Snap Shots

While the Boston Braves weren't able to cop another pennant last season, they at least put up a little sporting affair unknown to most of us that was worth more publicity than it had. Throughout the ball season the Braves were conducting among themselves a sort of elimination tourney to determine the best scrapper in their midst and Art Devlin finally managed to con the nurels. The thing began early in the season when Mr. Perdue, the husky Tennesseean, began poking fun and other jokes at Bill James from Seattle. Perdue would tell James that while he had been ill-favored by nature and not only was a funny looking thing but also mentally deficient, there were times when he almost showed gleams of intelligence. James, although rather slow to anger, at last became quite wrothy and finally decided that the only way he could avenge the insult was to poke Perdue brutally on the nose. Having declared his intention of doing so, the challenger arranged that the battle should take place where they all could witness it and all of them gathered in the club house the day of the bout. Mr. James, after ducting a mean swing from Perdue, landed a punch with steam behind it that put Perdue prone on the mat. Perdue wanted another chance and this time James stopped him again, the challenger to give Perdue further satisfaction every time the Southerner asked for bouts Perdue was laid cold in such a way that he didn't gain consciousness till later. For some while James wore the belt, although there were challengers, Hap Myers being the first, and he was easily disposed of. James had been told to fight shy of Art Devlin, the latter was a regular bruin with his dukes and blood-thirsty James figured Devlin for a has-been, however, and unmindful of the advice of his closest friends, got into a wrangle with Arthur. Four rounds of Devlin finished James, however, and the new champion wore the title for the rest of the season. As Devlin will not be in the big leagues next season, it looks as though James will be able to resume his title.

Donde Paskert, the star Philly outfielder, and Jimmy Austin, St. Louis' speedy shortstop, played ball together on the sand lots when they were kids. Both of them started their professional careers with Dayton in the Central league and played together there three years, when Paskert went to Augusta and Austin went to Omaha. Both of them as youngsters lived in Cleveland and learned their first pointers on the same there in minor league circles. Jimmy Austin was born in Tompkins and when his folks moved to Cleveland he saw a ball game for the first time at the age of fourteen. He took a notion to it at once and soon found that he was good at some, although it was some while before he could travel with fast amateur company. Jimmy insists that he is not a born ball player, or what would he have done had his folks never moved to his present home? He is certain, however, that if Austin isn't a born player few of them are. He's about the speediest proposition around short in either league and pepper is his middle name.

Mr. Leo P. Flynn, promoter, has a lively fancy. Mr. Flynn has selected names for the fighters that have been under his wing at one time or another—names that catch the notice of the most ardent pugilist. Bert Stanley, the "Oshkosh Assassin," Andy Parker, who scored 33 k. o.'s in 40 fights, was immediately labeled the "Skull Cracker." Johnny Alberts he called "Jack the Jaw Breaker." As a matter of fact, Alberts was something of a jaw-breaker, having broken the jaws of nine fighters in fourteen months. The most recent addition to Flynn's stable is Jimmy Fasane, who dropped Young Dyson, Thanksgiving day. Flynn has called Fasane the "Wall-hopping Wop."

CO. C. BARELY WIN FROM WHITE SOX

Local Lightweight Quintet Hold Heavy Whitewater Armory Five Last Evening to Score of 22 to 20.

With a team composed of lightweights, averaging about 150 pounds, the Janesville traveling basketball five better known as the White Stockings, journeyed to Whitewater last evening, where they met the heavy Co. C. Armory quintet in a game which looked like easy picking for the latter, but which really resulted in a tight score, the count being 22 to 20, Janesville proving the winners.

Anderson, a substitute on last year's Madison varsity bunch, was on the Co. C. quintet, and all of the other men were huskies, weighing in the neighborhood of 170 pounds and upwards. The first half ended with the White Socks leading by ten points, but the last half was nip and tuck, the contest being nobody's game until the final whistle blew.

Dalton played a star game for Janesville. He caged the baskets during the fray, and was supreme on floor work against his heavier opponents at all stages.

Johnson was the best man White-water had. He was over six feet tall, as were several of the Co. C. bunch. He contributed five baskets and two free throws.

The floor was so slippery that the local players could not hold their feet any length of time. It had just been previously waxed for a dance to take place following the game, which held the Socks back from scoring to the best of their ability.

The lineup and score is as follows: White Socks—Stickney, 1. f.; Dalton, r. f.; Falter, c.; Rao, 1. g.; Stewart, r. g.

Whitewater—Rodie, 1. f.; Anderson, r. f.; Johnson, c.; Saver, 1. g.; Gustavson, r. g.; Dalton 5, Johnson 5, Rodie 3, Stewart 2, Stickney, Falter, Gustavson.

Free Throws—Stickney 2, Gustavson, Johnson 2.

Gift—Whitewater 1.

Time of Halves—20 minutes.

Referee—Williams, Whitewater.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Opportunity tapped at a door. With a chance for the brother within. He rapped till his fingers were sore. And muttered: "Come on, let me in. Here is something I know you can do. Here's a hill that I know you can climb." But the brother inside Very quickly replied: "Old fellow, I haven't got time." Opportunity wandered along In search of a man who would rise. He said to the indolent throng: "Here's a chance for the fellow who tries." But each of them said with a smile, "I wish I could do it but I'm very busy today. Very busy today. And I'm sorry to say That really I haven't got time." At last opportunity came To a man who was burdened with cares. And said: "I now offer the same Opportunity that has been theirs. Here's a duty that ought to be done. It's a chance if you've got the time to take it." Said the man, with a grin, "Come along, pass it in! I'll either find time or I'll make it." Of all the excuses there are By which this old world is accursed, This "haven't got time" is by far The poorest, the feeblest, the worst. A delusion it is, and a snare; If the habit is yours, you should shake it. For if you want to do What is offered to you, You'll find time to do it, or make it. —Detroit Free Press.

The closing of a year is always a good time for a backward glance, and it usually discloses the fact that now and then an opportunity has been overlooked or passed by because we didn't have time to give it attention. The feeling that most of us entertain concerning the past, is that if we could live it over, many mistakes would be corrected, and many failures avoided.

This is more or less of a delusion for experience demonstrates that the same errors are repeated, year after year. The man who drinks knows that he is doing himself an injury, but he seldom reforms. This is true of many habits which control us, and a repetition of life, if this were possible, would make but little difference.

Human nature is very much alike, the world over, and object lessons hang out their warning signals, at every corner, but we seldom profit by the experience of others. The boy cultivating the taste for drink, watches his companion—who has acquired the habit—as he staggers down the street, and says: "What a fool! If I thought that I would ever reach a condition where I couldn't control myself better than that, I would stop now." But he doesn't stop.

A little later he stands at the altar and pledges his faith to the pure-minded girl whose love and confidence he has won. She knows something about his weakness, but he has promised to reform, and she has so much faith in him that she knows he will, but what about it?

The question answers itself, and the story of dissipation and poverty is so familiar that pre-nuptial promises seem like a burlesque, and the result is a tragedy to the little home where the girl anticipated so much happiness.

Conditions of this kind come to the surface at the holiday season, because the kind-hearted people who seek to relieve suffering, gain access to homes of this class, and while the wife and little brood of children offer no complaint, it is often apparent that the husband and father is responsible.

The law of eugenics, soon to be enforced in Wisconsin, is all right, so far as it goes, and so far as the physical and mental is concerned, but it practically ignores the moral issue, and so the young man who drinks will continue to marry and homes of poverty and destitution will continue to multiply.

It ought to be a crime for a young man who drinks to marry. This may seem like a drastic proposition, but it would cut out half the tragedies of life, and accomplish more in the way of reform than any temperance measure on record.

The man who is wedded to his cups has no business to be wedded to a wife, until he decides that the love of a good woman, and a home is worth more to him than gratifying an appetite for drink.

That's the important problem which confronts him after marriage and the pity of it is that all too often the cup is the most attractive of the two.

But what has all this to do with the text? Nothing, directly, except that none of us are so busy that we can't close of the year in serious thought and retrospection.

The opportunities which have slipped away, or been neglected, will not return, but life is ahead of us, and there is such a thing as taking a brace against our own weaknesses, and doing better.

It is an old saying that "the road to perdition is lined with good resolutions." While this may be true, the fact remains that nothing is accomplished, by way of reform, without resolution.

Comparatively few people are victims of the drink habit, but none of us are so near perfect that there is not a weak spot somewhere in our armor, and the plea of a lack of time to do things, is a common complaint.

We are prone to overlook the fact that we have all the time there is and that "we shall never pass this way but once." There are old men, standing close to the verge of time, who have promised themselves a little rest, for the past twenty years, as soon as "they could find time."

There are old women patiently waiting in the home for the time to come when they could share the vacation, but both have waited too long, and the outlook for the long journey alone, is not the most cheering prospect.

The churches are neglected because there are so many people waiting for time to pay some attention to the sacred things of life, but it never comes, because the habit of church going, once lost, is seldom regained. It may be possible to be good, and ignore the church, but the possibilities for doing good are largely through the channels of mutual effort.

Here is a choice sentiment from the pen of Thomas Drier, a magazine publisher, sent out in leaflet form to the fraternity. It is entitled "A business man's Christmas day confession of faith," and rings so true that it merits wide circulation.

"On this great birthday I want to offer to my friends an expression of the faith that has sustained me during the stress and strain of a business year. Christmas is the greatest birthday, but to me all days are holy days and all days are birthdays. They come to us out of the unknown, like children, and slip away into the sea of silence, as we shall all do when the game is played and the lights are turned out.

"Out of the adventures of twelve months of struggle I find myself emerging with greater faith in myself, greater faith in my work, greater faith in my neighbors, and greater faith in Him whom some of us choose to call the Great Executive. Great joys have come to me, and by sorrow I have not remained unvisited. But standing here at the close of the year, I see clearly that both were needed for my growth, that both flooded me with wealth, that both have contributed to the strength that is mine and to my ability to express that strength in gentleness and neighborliness.

"I should like to come to my friends on this day of days and pour into them the faith that has upheld me and guided me. As a business man who is playing his part in the practical world of affairs I want to speak daringly of spiritual things—of a strenuous, militant, practical, creative faith in which men who become masters of things may find contentment of spirit and that joy which passeth understanding.

"Let me say, then, that I believe in a Great Executive who is all-wise, all-powerful, all-just and all-loving, who makes no mistakes, who permits no wastes, and who is so directing all institutions and all men that they are all serving Him in His way all the time. It is because of my faith in Him that I have great faith in you. And it is because of that faith that I dare say 'I love you and I want to give you my best.'"

Human nature is very much alike, the world over, and object lessons hang out their warning signals, at every corner, but we seldom profit by the experience of others. The boy cultivating the taste for drink, watches his companion—who has acquired the habit—as he staggers down the street, and says: "What a fool! If I thought that I would ever reach a condition where I couldn't control myself better than that, I would stop now." But he doesn't stop.

A little later he stands at the altar and pledges his faith to the pure-minded girl whose love and confidence he has won. She knows something about his weakness, but he has promised to reform, and she has so much faith in him that she knows he will, but what about it?

The question answers itself, and the story of dissipation and poverty is so familiar that pre-nuptial promises seem like a burlesque, and the result is a tragedy to the little home where the girl anticipated so much happiness.

Conditions of this kind come to the surface at the holiday season, because the kind-hearted people who seek to relieve suffering, gain access to homes of this class, and while the wife and little brood of children offer no complaint, it is often apparent that the husband and father is responsible.

The law of eugenics, soon to be enforced in Wisconsin, is all right, so far as it goes, and so far as the physical and mental is concerned, but it practically ignores the moral issue, and so the young man who drinks will continue to marry and homes of poverty and destitution will continue to multiply.

his eased into town the other evening and they stuck around my office until I invited them to go out to supper with me. I hadn't heard from my wife since morning.

When we arrived there we found three pleasant looking ladies occupying the living room. My wife introduced them as old sorority friends of hers.

Then she excused herself, got me into the butler's pantry and hissed: "Chump."

"Why?" I dibbled. "What's the reason for the sarcasm?"

"The reason is this. There is only one small chicken and here we are, seven of us. What's to be done? Why unload all of your old poker friends on me without a moment's warning? What?"

There was no answer, so we returned to the living room, where our mutual friends seemed to be waiting for us. We explained the situation—only one chicken.

"That's all right," said my friend Johnson, who, by the way, is one of the grandest little fixers in the business. "We will all go down to dinner. We can all go to the theater afterward."

"My car holds only four," I said. "Order a car from the taxicab company," said he. That man always seems to be bubbling over with ideas.

After it was all over I figured up and the result was as follows:

Automobile rental ..... $ 7.00
Dinner down town ..... 15.65
Tip to waiter ..... 2.00
Theater ticket ..... 14.00
Total ..... $42.65

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

ARE YOU AFRAID TO THINK?

Once there was a wise man who said: "Most persons do not think. They only think they think."

If we could examine the brains of such persons, by means of the X rays or otherwise, we should find that the creases or fissures in the brains are not as deep as they are in the brains of persons who really think, which means that the amount of brain surface available for thinking is less than it is in the brains of others.

Their brains are not developed. Development, expansion of the brain, comes only through use, which is thinking.

Think for yourself. Do not let others do your thinking for you. In the interaction of idea upon idea in the mind, working as one cog does upon another in the wheel of a machine, there are growth and life.

It is not true, as is sometimes asserted and perhaps commonly believed, that the generality of mankind is not able to think. Within every mind dwells the spark of thought, which needs only the blowing of will power to glow and blaze into glorious fire.

Every one can think if he will do so, and every one should think unless he wishes to be classed among the beasts of the field, to whom the power of connected, consecutive, clear thinking is denied. It is the power to make use of the intellect which differentiates man from his fellow animals.

Not alone is the thinking of a poet "divine," as some of the writers assert. All thinking, of whatever sort, partakes of the divine character. Poets have no monopoly.

There is another side to the question. Not only are many persons too lazy mentally to think for themselves, but they are afraid to make the attempt. They will not betake themselves to an intellectual corner and reason out things for themselves, for fear the exertion will be too great for them.

They fear the fatigue of thinking. "There was not one in all that brilliant circle who was not afraid to go home and think," said Dr. Johnson.

He meant that there was not one who was not afraid to sit down with his own soul and reason out the facts of his existence.

There was bitter reproach in his words. There is mental if not moral guilt to be charged against the man or woman who is afraid to face calmly and thoughtfully the problems of life. Be not afraid to think!

Look to True Accomplishment. An idle mind is possible with busy hands; so often this is forgotten. We may do many things and accomplish little, simply because the activity is skin deep, outward, superficial. We want rest for our attainments to sink in, to gather our harvest, understand and sift it. We may see too much to see anything clearly, hear too much to really listen; with much hastening we do not always arrive.

Early Cultivation of Tobacco. The cultivation of the tobacco plant was about the first thing the American colonists turned their attention to upon recovering from the gold fever. It is known that John Rolfe, the husband of Pocahontas, had a field of tobacco at Jamestown in 1612, and it is believed that the plant was cultivated by Rolfe and his neighbors at an earlier date than that. The export records of tobacco from Jamestown colony appear to begin in 1612.

The Unpopular Feminine Fool. There is nobody so unpopular in feminine society as a fool. Everybody is down on her, even her fellow fools being sorry for her, and when one woman is sorry for another it can only mean one thing—that is, that there is nothing to be feared from her.—The Ladies' Field.

Jealousy a Sham. Jealousy is a terrible thing. It resembles love, only it is precisely love's contrary. Instead of wishing for the welfare of the object loved, it desires the dependence of that object upon itself and its own triumph. Love is the forgetfulness of self; jealousy is the most passionate form of egotism.

Miniature Yachts and Their Skippers

Hundreds of Boys and Girls, and Grown-Ups Too, Assemble Each Fair Day On the Brink of a Pretty Little Lake in Central Park To Sail or Steam Their Little Craft.

There has been a period in the lives of all of us when we dared many a spanking for the joy of sailing a boat, or even a chip in a bathtub or gutter. Spankings had no terrors for those of us, fired with an ambition born of a hazy knowledge of the daring deeds of Vikings, to explore with our rude and home-made craft foreign shores, even though they be but the far side of bathtub or the last navigable point of the gutter that flowed past our back gate. These, perhaps, were instincts that were handed down to us from our far travelled discoverer, one Christopher Columbus, and in consequence, we are all born skippers with a do or die determination to outlast the other fellow.

There is one little spot, however, set in a sylvan glade of rare beauty on whose broad and glistening bosom there floats more little sail yachts and power boats, that represent in the aggregate a fortune, than any other in this country. This is the boat lake in Central Park, New York, where nearly a thousand miniature boats are daily sailed and steamed by their owners, whether they be children or grown-ups. This may surprise you, for be it known these grown-ups are even more ardent and enthusiastic skippers than the average boy who overflowed the bathtub on Mother's newest rug in order to prove the sea worthiness of his little craft.

Nestling under a bluff which sweeps down from the Fifth Avenue side of the park and overlooked by the stately and costliest mansions occupied by the wealthiest residents of New York, the little boat lake's shores are met by sweeping greenwards which reach down to its limpid waters in a gentle slope, affording delightful vantage points for hundreds of rest seekers, or artists, who have chosen this spot as one of the most exquisite bits of landscapes in the park. It has been reproduced on thousands of canvasses and the glimpse one gets of the gray walls and turrets of the Metropolitan Museum of Art through vistas of verdant boughs adds but a deeper charm to the picture.

Morris Rules Here.

A boardwalk surrounds the lake which covers, perhaps, an area of three acres and this walk is crowded from morn till dark with hundreds of enthusiastic yachtsmen and yachtswomen. On the far eastern shore of the lake, standing back a little from the walk, is a little boat house, and this is in the tender care of Morris Fay, a genial and courteous old Celt who long since kissed the Blarney Stone as well as winning his spurs as a salt of the old school. Morris is a born sailor and he loves with a devotion little short of idolatry the little boats that are stored, through a special permit gained from the City's Park Commissioner, in the boat house. No fee is exacted by this graft ridden city for this privilege it seems and in consequence barefooted and ragged little boys and girls from the East Side are just as welcome to sail their boats here as the children of scores of parents who reckon their wealth by millions.

In all there are upwards of a thousand little yachts, sail and power, stored in the boat house. Many of these were fashioned by the hands of their owners. Others were purchased at stores, or else from retired seafaring men who spend the long winter evenings in their homes whitening out yachts after the model, perhaps, of the boat on which they made their most memorable cruise. These they sell to the little children of the rich at fabulous prices after, of course, the boat in question has been brought to the park and tried out.

From early spring to the day the lake takes on a skim of ice, it is crowded with boats of all sizes and classes. When the first warm sun of spring softens the air and removes the sting of winter from the atmosphere, scores of these husky old skippers may be seen slowly making their way to the lake, tenderly bearing their boats. If they are of the opinion that the trial spin of their boat is to be in secret they are vastly mistaken, for the children of Fifth Avenue, as well as those of the East Side, know just as well when it is time to go to the lake as the oldest salt. There is always a big gallery on hand to observe these trial spins—and critical observers they are, too. These little fellows know a boat the moment their eyes rest on one, and further they are not easily swindled when it comes to making a deal. Of course many of them are children of parents who keep a yacht in commission and they absorb much of their nautical lore from the crew of their father's yachts.

There are many men, young and old, unable to enjoy the thrills of yachting in the true sense of the word, who seize upon the pleasures afforded by the park lake as the next best substitute. Many of these men are employed as clerks and their evenings are spent in fashioning boats from models of some celebrated yacht of international prowess. These yachts are brought to the lake in the early spring and put overboard. If they are right, they are stored in the boat house and from then on every possible moment that can be spared from business is devoted to the sailing of these little craft. It is surprising the keen rivalry that springs up between owners of boats and when a real race is on the interest is as keen and intense as though a Lipton cup was hanging in the balance.

To indicate that American Cup Defenders have proved popular models there are no less than a hundred Reliances in the boat house, and each is a supposedly exact replica of the American conqueror of the Lipton challenger. Sunday morning is a popular time for the grown-ups, although hundreds of children from the East Side swarm about the lakeside on that day.

Where Rich Meets Poor.

But the fellowship that exists between rich and poor is one of the most delightful features of this cosmopolitan sport. Frequently a ragged little urchin from the East Side, who knows more about a boat in a minute than half of the men who pay a hundred thousand dollars a year to keep a yacht in commission, will journey to the lake with a crust of bread his hard-working mother has spared him for his luncheon. He will be joyfully hailed by a faultlessly dressed son of a Vanderbilt or a Gould who, attended by maid or valet, is at the lake to sail his yacht or race his miniature motor boat, the latter in all probability costing two or three hundred dollars. When the noon hour arrives a footman will be seen approaching bearing a hamper from which is spread on the lawn a spotless and snowy cloth preparatory to serving the all fresco luncheon. The honored guest in all probability is the little urchin whose pocket is bulging with the hard crust he brought from home. He is liked because he knows everything possible to be known about a boat, and further, if the Vanderbilt or Gould boat should have a flaw he would not hesitate to tell its owner so. That is why he is so popular.

Many of the races sailed over his little course are widely heralded, and when it becomes known that boats of a certain type, and the best in the class, are to be pitted against each other an enormous outpouring of enthusiasts follows. Men, women and children journey from one end of the island to the other to watch these races and strange to say there is far more interest in the sailing races than there is in those of the power boats, despite the high speed and proportionate cost of the latter. Some of these motorboats are imported and the engines in them alone cost one hundred or two hundred dollars. Some of them attain speed of twenty miles an hour, and their steering gear can be so adjusted that they can encircle the lake many times without accident.

But it's an interesting spot and a democratic one. And there is none there more interesting than old Morris Fay when he can be induced to talk, although this is not often, for he is far too busy attending the wants of his many patrons, all of whom swear by him.

Side Lights On The Circus Business

By
D. W. WATT

(Copyrighted.)
In my day in the ticket wagon with the Adam Forepaugh Show the much talked of "over money" which by many was thought to be a big thing, was most part a delusion, and while occasionally a few people would go away and forget their change, as a rule, they thought of it later and came back and it was always there for the taking.

In eighty-two we were showing on the corner of State and 22d street in Chicago to an enormous business and as the show grounds were ten and twelve feet lower than the street the start that people would get when the incline coming to the ticket wagon made it a hard place to sell tickets. The people coming into the ticket wagon would hardly stop running till they got mixed up in the big crowd or went against the wagon.

One evening there were four board of trade men who made up their minds to go to the circus and go in the old-fashioned way, get into the crowd and buy their tickets the same as people did in the country, so one man was to buy the tickets to the big show, another to buy the rail road tickets, and another to buy the concert tickets, side show and so on.

The man who was nominated to buy the tickets for the big show found before he came to the ticket wagon that he had only a few cents in silver, a $20 bill and a $2 bill. And so that he might not make a mistake he put the $2 bill in his right hand vest pocket, the $20 over in the left, so that he would be sure and get all of the right bill.

But that was where he made a mistake. He reversed them unbeknown to himself and when he handed me what he supposed was the $2 bill for four tickets, it was the $20 bill. I handed him the four tickets and grabbed for $18 to hand him, but he was gone.

One of his friend said, "That ticket man wanted to give you some change," and he laughingly remarked, "I wish he had for I only gave him a $2 bill." And he never knew it till the next morning as he came to get his $20 in his left hand vest pocket and he found that he only had the $2 bill left.

About 10 o'clock that morning his coachman drove him down to the show grounds and before his carriage had stopped on the street I knew he was the man. He came down to the ticket wagon and asked me if I was the gentleman that sold tickets the night before. When I told him I was he said, "I don't expect you remember a man that handed you a $20 bill for four tickets and went away without his change."

I said, "I don't remember of such transaction."

"Well," he said, "I wouldn't think you would. There was an awful crowd of people acting queer and of course you wouldn't know."

I then smiled and told him I knew he was the man before his carriage had come to a standstill on State street. I had seen him, and for the rest of our stay in Chicago this man was after me every two or three days to entertain me in some way. He was a wealthy man and a good spender and so far as the $18 was concerned, if I had had the time to have been entertained by him while in Chicago he would have spent several times that much on me.

"He said," I just thought that Adam Forepaugh would get that money and he had more money than I did and I would just go down and inquire about it."

And in most cases, where money was forgotten, the balance usually found its way back to the wagon and as a rule, before they had a chance to ask for it I handed them the correct change. Many of them would want to explain how they came to leave it, but I had their exact change and as the ticket wagon was one of the busy places around the show I had but little time to visit with them or listen to their explanations.

But for the most part many of them thought it was a useless trip to come out to the wagon and ask for money that they had left two or three hours before, but it was seldom that I forgot a face and if a man or woman left their change at the wagon I would almost invariably tell them if they came near the wagon, what their mission was and how much change belonged to them. While occasionally there would be twenty-five or fifty cents left that never was called for, as a rule the much talked of "over money" amounted to but little.

We opened in St. Louis that same year for a week and on Monday night there were five newspapers and the man who was known as Mr. Forepaugh's end of the ticket wagon looking through a screen to watch me work and in less than ten minutes I got two $20 gold pieces for my apiece, all the years in the business I never got but three of these yellow coins for $1. These men saw it come in and when I got through selling they said to me, "If you will take us to Tony Faust's and buy us a nice dinner after the show, we'll say nothing."

I said to them, "Nothing doing, for chances are nineteen out of twenty that those men will be back either this evening or tomorrow after their change and if they do it will be here for them. But I will do this. You come down here Saturday evening and if this change has not been called for, we will go down to Tony Faust's and you can bring some friends with you and we'll have a spread worth looking at."

And some one of those men visited the ticket wagon every afternoon and evening and some times the crowd would be so great they could not get near the wagon, but they would stick up their hand and holler over the heads of the crowd "Is there anything doing yet?" They were all in the lookout for the banquet Saturday night.

One change for the two twenties was never called for and on Saturday night my friend (C. A. Davies) the newspaper man at that time with the show, got all the newspaper reporters together and some of their friends and Tony Faust, who at that time was a famous caterer in St. Louis, did him self proud on the spread he gave us that evening. And which it was all over it not only took my change from the two twenties, but I had to add a substantial sum to that. And that seemed to make the old adage hold true, "One man's gain is another's loss."

In those days I got the benefit of all lost tickets as I only had to settle for what were taken in and counted back to me from the front door. Many people would buy their tickets in the afternoon for the evening and for some reason or other they would never show up, possibly a heavy storm or something of that kind, so that the lost tickets that never showed up would be several hundred during the season. In case of a big crowd at the front door there would occasionally one get by without being counted, but so far as a general overcharge in the ticket wagon in those days it amounted to very little.

We were showing in Bangor, Me., and at the afternoon show when the crowd around the ticket wagon was a big one I noticed a couple of young men standing off to one side and watching the ticket wagon and talking to themselves. Finally one of them came into the crowd, left a $3 gold piece upon the board and asked me for tickets and $2. He threw up his hands and said, "I want $2 more. I gave you a $5 gold piece."

I handed him his two tickets. I said, "you never mind, young man, you've got all the change that you will ever get out of this wagon and so run along in now and watch the show."

He went back and talked with his partner a minute and then came back and said, "I find I've made a mistake and handed you my $5 gold piece which was a keep sake."

"Well," I said, "young man, $3 gold pieces are so scarce that I kind of like the looks of them myself and I shall be obliged to keep it."

He and his partner had talked it over for some minutes and they thought probably they would put it over me for a $5 gold piece, but when they found they couldn't, they wanted it back.

But even at that time the $3 gold pieces were very scarce and many people wanted them for keepsakes. And while the kind that were anxious to get the best of the ticket wagon were not very plenty, yet there would be one of these smart ones show up occasionally.

A tall, slender young man came in to the crowd once and waved a $100 bill over the heads of the people and yelled at the top of his voice for two tickets. I paid no attention to him, but he finally got up and threw it down on the board and said, "I want two tickets and change for this bill."

I said to him, "I don't want your bill. There's no excuse for your being in this crowd with a $100 bill, trying to make a show of it and I think your friends, if you have any, have all seen it. Now just quietly tuck that into your pocket and hand me a silver dollar for your two tickets."

He said, "you will take this $100 and give me the change or I shall report you to Mr. Forepaugh. I have known him for some years and you can't get smart with me."

I said to him, "you never knew his son did you?"

He said, "No sir, I did not, but I knew the old gentleman very well."

I said, "The son and father has but little or nothing to do with the running of the show for the last few years. You are talking to the boss now and I don't see as there is any chance for you to get any satisfaction out of him."

He quietly went down in his pocket, got me a silver dollar and he and his friend walked off toward the main entrance and two or three times looked back over his shoulder to take a last look at Adam Forepaugh's son.

Croup and Cough Remedy.

Croup is a terrible disease, it attacks children so suddenly they are very apt to choke unless given the proper remedy at once. There is nothing better in the world than Dr. King's New Discovery. Lewis Chamberlain, of Manchester, Ohio, writes about his children. "Sometimes in severe attacks we were afraid they would die, but since we proved that a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup, coughs and colds." ## Ponderous Personages

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

ACHILLES was a famous warrior who lived in the days when believing things was the principal amusement of the people. No one ever saw Achilles' birth record, but he is said to have been born on Patmos, a lady who lived in the sea and was intimately acquainted with some of the most prominent mermaids. Thetis, realizing the unhealthiness of the times, took Achilles on the River Styx and dipped him by taking every part of him except the heel by which she held him. This we are asked to believe, rendered Achilles invulnerable, except on the heel, which was always tender and subject to chilblains, causing him great discomfort.

Thetis entered Achilles in the West Point of those times, and he grew up to be a great warrior. Fighting Achilles was like backing away at a Kansas tornado with a cavalry sabre. It amuses the hacker but didn't hurt Achilles, and presently the hacker would be taken back home in two or more parts, and insurance rates on personal enemies of the good looking young warrior would go up another notch.

As Achilles was young, enlisted with the Greeks under Agamemnon, and went over to Asia Minor to help make hash out of Paris and the Trojans. For nine years, he ravaged the country around Troy, making down men as if they had been chaff-weed, and becoming far more unpopular than smallpox and other popular diseases of the day. Nowadays, the young man who puts stove-knives under his vest and brass knuckles on his fists and goes out with this undue advantage to fight his way to fame, is looked upon with considerable disfavor, but nobody seems to criticize Achilles, and as champion after champion bent his sword on the young man's case-hardened hide and blasted up the flume full of vain regrets, the Grecian army became madly enthusiastic and the usual result happened.

Achilles' head swelled out of shape, and he began to boss Agamemnon. He demanded more gage receipts than a rising young prize fighter, and when he couldn't get it he sulked in his tent for months, playing the harmonica, while the Greeks were being chased rapidly around the walls of Troy by their reviving foes. Finally, Patroclus, an old college chum of Achilles, borrowed his armor and succeeded in getting himself killed. This so enraged Achilles that he went forth being careful first to rustle up another suit of armor and after killing Hector, the head Trojan, he dragged him seven times around the walls of Troy, by the leg. While he was finishing his unmanly job, Paris, a young Trojan man about town, who had caused the whole war by eloping with another man's wife, shot a poisoned arrow into Achilles' bum heel, and he died in great agony, to the great relief of all present.

Achilles was made a god by the Greeks, and was greatly admired. We cannot agree with them on three counts. First, he was a cad, for fighting with a sure thing. Second, down men as if they had been chaff-weed, and becoming far more unpopular than smallpox and other popular diseases of the day. Nowadays, the young man who puts stove-knives under his vest and brass knuckles on his fists and goes out with this undue advantage to fight his way to fame, is looked upon with considerable disfavor, but nobody

ITALIAN EDUCATOR

BRINGS NEW SYSTEM FOR SCHOOLS HERE

Famous Woman Educator Will Endeavor to Adjust American System of Education to Her Theory.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Dec. 27.—Dr. Maria Montessori, the great Italian educator of children who comes to this country to teach her system of the uplift of the human race through the medium of consistent education, told her views and ambitions of the fundamental phases of her methods. Miss Anne E. George, director of the work for the Montessori Educational Association in America interpreted for the educator who does not speak English.

"No system of education can be told in a few words or in a few hundred words," said Dr. Montessori. "I have told of my method in my books and yet I find that the same thing must be told over and over again in different words to fit different cases with which I have to deal. I might say that my method is one which leads the child to teach itself. The teacher is not a teacher, merely a director of the activities of the child's mind, body and general temperament so as to bring out the things which are naturally within the child but not brought out by the average system of education."

"The liberty of the child is another very fundamental thing. In my school the little ones are free to pursue their own natural inclinations. The fostering of spontaneity in the child is another great factor which must be reckoned with."

"The normal child who grows to be the normal man or woman is the individual who in this world has had the least attention. Science has done much for the sick in mind and body. Science has done nothing for the normal child and consequently society does not honor the teacher nor give close attention to the preparation of teachers."

"It was through the deficient and abnormal children that I first learned my great lessons about the teaching of childhood. I taught my poor unfortunate little ones and found that liberty, opportunities for spontaneous activity and freedom from the restraint of ignorant elders were the wonders. My deficient children were advancing along the road of knowledge faster than the normal children in the ordinary schools. Why not set free the normal by the same method, I thought?"

"Since then I have studied the normal child with results which have surprised me. I took simple means, I offered stimuli from the outside material to quicken their selection of things which they studied of their own volition and soon discovered that the child, left alone and untrammelled upon would soon teach himself to do things which he would not learn in four weeks the number of weeks in the ordinary school."

"Our scientists have never had the attitude of humility toward the normal child which they have displayed toward the smallest germs on their microscope slides. The greatest looking goes humbly to the bedside of the sick child but not to the side of its normal brother. This is why we have not succeeded in penetrating scientifically into the knowledge of the normal man. Christ, when he taught the science of life, the way of life, taught humility as its first principal, and said, 'He who would be master of all must be servant of all, and he who would be master must serve.'"

"It was thus that I tried to approach the task which I had set for myself. I found that teachers in the public schools often pour a flood of words presenting various phases of the subject on the confused pupil. It was not that they were not sincere, but my belief that, with simplicity, children would learn the same thing more clearly and with less effort and less loss. It was my intention to analyze in order that the child might receive his precepts in plain, direct, concise language. My attitude was to be that of a scientist. I was not coming to teach them. I came with the order of the scientist who desires to come upon the spontaneous manifestations of life and to assign them their proper value."

How Germany Deals With Drugs.

The German government has for years fixed the retail price of drugs, even to the extent of designating what must be charged for bottle, cork, label, or ointment box used in dispensing the medicine. Such list is revised each year, furnishes a curiously interesting supplement to the German drug journals.

Order Extra Copies Of The Big Chronological Edition Now Or Not Later Than Monday Morning At 10 O'Clock

GREAT END O' THE YEAR EDITION MORE ATTRACTIVE THAN EVER

Published Wednesday December Thirty-first.

A Retrospective Of The Year.

The presses start on the Big Annual Edition of the Gazette Monday and all orders for extra copies must be received by that time.

LAST YEAR THOUGH HUNDREDS OF EXTRA COPIES WERE PRINTED THE DEMAND FOR THEM WAS SEVERAL TIMES GREATER THAN THE SUPPLY.

MANY PEOPLE SAVE THIS CHRONOLOGICAL EDITION EACH YEAR AS IT IS A HISTORY OF ALL LOCAL HAPPENINGS. HUNDREDS OF EXTRA COPIES ARE SENT TO FRIENDS AND BUSINESS FIRMS AS AN EDITION REPRESENTATIVE OF THE CITY.

THE BEST PIECE OF CIVIC LITERATURE JANESVILLE HAS, IT IS IN GREAT DEMAND. PRICE 10c PER COPY, MAILED FROM THIS OFFICE IF YOU SO DESIRE IT.

Best Advertising Medium Of the Year

MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURERS CAN USE THIS EDITION PROFITABLY AS AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM. IT IS VALUABLE ALIKE TO THE MERCHANT AND MANUFACTURER IN THAT IT IS KEPT AND USED IN HUNDREDS OF HOMES AS A REFERENCE. THE RESULT IS MANY MORE TIMES THE PUBLICITY FOR THE ADVERTISER THAN HE COULD GET IN AN ORDINARY ISSUE OF THE PAPER.

IT IS PARTICULARLY URGED THAT THOSE ADVERTISERS WHO ARE PLANNING TO USE SPACE IN THE CHRONOLOGICAL NUMBER ALSO PLAN TO HAVE THEIR COPY IN THIS OFFICE EARLY.

New Advertising Rate Card In Effect January 1st, 1914

WILL NOT EFFECT CONTRACTS NOW IN FORCE

All contracts written after that date will be figured at the new rate. The Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazettes will be merged into the Daily Gazette as soon as arrangements can be completed for the proper transfer. A grand total of about 8,000 circulation will thus be secured for the Daily Gazette and advertisers will secure the total circulation of both editions at a less cost than heretofore.

The Gazette makes two sworn circulation statements to the government each year. It carries its sworn circulation statement on its editorial page each day and its circulation books are open to any advertiser for investigation. It is a member of the Gilt Edge list of Daily Newspapers, who believe that newspaper circulation should be sold as a commodity, who invite and welcome and audit of their circulation books and records by any recognized audit agency. Proven, sworn to circulation is the basis upon which all well regulated newspapers build their advertising rate card. The basic rate, upon which the rate card is figured is 2½c per inch per thousand circulation for the lowest or minimum rate, so that the Gazette's minimum or lowest rate on 5,000 inches or more will be 20c per inch for a circulation of 8,000. A proportionate change will be made on the 2500 and 1000 inch quantities, these being placed at 22c and 23c respectively. A clear understanding of the new rates may be gained by carefully reading the new rate card reproduced on this page.

Splendid Service Rendered Advertisers By The Advertising Department.

There is no charge for this service, which consists of writing copy, planning clever merchandising ideas and putting them into action, and the use of a high priced illustrative service. If you have a selling problem, this department offers you this service which is advertising—plus—a waste-minimizing, sales developing aid, based upon an accumulation of selling-advertising facts based upon a first hand knowledge of how these two applied to your own business, can most properly be linked together.

Getting Advertising Copy In Early

The importance of going to press on time is the point which makes or mars the efficiency of the paper as an advertising medium. Mails must be made! Delivery of papers must be made at a certain time and early advertising copy makes these things possible.

Stringent rules effecting this feature of the newspaper business necessarily must be made: All large advertising copy must be in this office the day before and copy of any kind will not be guaranteed insertion same day if not in the office before noon.

You advertisers who want efficiency in your advertising can insure it by getting your copy into this office early.

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

HAVING A GOOD OPINION OF ONESELF.

A QUESTION of ownership in regard to some of the household property which their father had left them once arose between two brothers. After considerable discussion the one who seemed to have the better right yielded his claim. Someone asked him afterwards why he did it and he answered, "Well, I thought it over and I made up my mind that I'd get more satisfaction out of it that way. I always wanted to be sure I'm square and I'd rather overdo it than underdo it. So when I came to look at it carefully I decided that a couple of hundred dollars' worth of property was something I could get along with better than I could get along without a good opinion of myself."

I liked him before I heard that story and I liked him better afterward.

We sometimes use the phrase, "He has a good opinion of himself" as a reproach. But if the good opinion is justified it is very far from a reproach.

To hold one's good opinion of oneself as more precious than possessions, than fame, than other men's praise, in short, as more to be valued than the worldly ideal of success,—what a splendid thing that is, and how terribly hard!

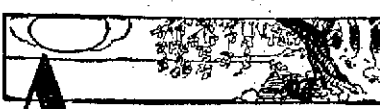

For it is just as if one could decide the matter once for all and have it done with. Nor is the issue always clear and simple. But day by day, in little and big things, in simple and subtle form, the test comes to us; and over and over again we must decide whether we care more for our own good opinion of ourselves than for anything else.

And sometimes in the ardor of the moment "anything else" may seem very desirable, very sweet.

On the tennis court a question arises as to whether your opponent's ball is in or out. He is too far away to see for himself; the bystander decides it was out. You have a very strong suspicion it was in, but you are not quite sure. Will you say that you can't see, let the bystander's word settle it, and take the game and set to which such a decision entitles you? Or do you value your own good opinion of yourself so highly that you would rather give the other man the benefit than take it yourself? In the heat of conflict that game and set does seem very vital, doesn't it? But after your ardor has cooled down and a truer sense of proportion has returned to you which way will you be inclined to go?

Or all the beautiful things Stevenson said, I think I like as well as any the last part of his prayer for the day, "Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, and bring us to our resting beds, weary and content and undisturbed."—in other words without having lost our good opinion of ourselves. It's a thing worth praying for, isn't it?

THE KITCHEN CABINET

A FOOLISH consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, accused by little statesmen and philosophers and divines.

With consistency a great soul has simply nothing to do. Speak what you think today in words as hard as cannon balls, and tomorrow speak what tomorrow thinks in hard words again, though it contradict everything you said today.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

The following are recipes which may not all be new, but are all good and worthy of a place in your cookery library:

Current Bun.—Take four pounds of bread dough, one pound of currants, one-half pound of sultana raisins, one-half pound of seeded raisins, one pound of sugar, one pound of butter, one-quarter of a pound of blanched and chopped almonds, one-quarter of a pound of chopped citron, one tablespoonful of ginger, the same of cinnamon, one-half tablespoonful of allspice and one grated nutmeg. Mix the butter and the dough well together, then take a pound of the dough, roll it out to use for the top. To the remainder add the spices and fruit, lay in a buttered pan and put the rolled piece on for a cover, wetting the top of the dough before placing it. When browned a little, brush over with a beaten egg.

A Ducky Cake.—Mix together a cup of butter, a cup each of brown sugar and white, and a half cup of sorghum. Add half a cupful of grated chocolate to a half cup of boiling water; mix with one teaspoonful of soda, four eggs, one cup of sweet milk, four cupfuls of flour, one pound of raisins, one teaspoon of cream of tartar, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Then add the whites of the eggs and a half cup of nutmeats. Bake in a loaf and ice with brown sugar and water cooked to the soft ball stage and poured over egg white. Beat well and spread over the cake.

Roast Shoulder of Mutton.—Make the following stuffing: A cupful of bread crumbs, half a cup of suet, a tablespoonful of parsley and mixed herbs, the grated rind of a lemon and the juice, one-half a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of pepper and the yolk of an egg. Wipe the mutton with a damp cloth, take out the bones, spread the stuffing and sew up, leaving the string loose at both ends, to draw out easily. Place on a rack with boiling water underneath, and cook 20 minutes to the pound. If the bones are put into the water in the pan the broth will be well flavored and that liquor can be used for the gravy.

A delicious quick dessert is made of buttered bread in slices laid in a baking dish and any desired canned fruit poured over. Bake until well heated.

FIRST WOMAN TO SIT
IN A STATE SENATE

Dr. Martha Hughes Cannon.

Dr. Martha Hughes Cannon of Salt Lake City, the first woman elected to the state senate of any commonwealth in the United States, still takes great interest in public affairs, and has been particularly interested by newspaper accounts in which the honor of first becoming a woman state senator was accredited to Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson of Colorado, a member of the last legislature of the Centennial state. Dr. Cannon was elected to the Utah state senate in 1905.

Stomach Troubles Disappear.

Stomach, liver and kidney troubles, weak nerves, lame back and female ills disappear when Electric Bitters are used. Thousands of women would not be without a bottle in their home. Eliza Pool of Dewey Okla. writes: "Electric Bitters raised me from a bed of sickness and suffering and has done me a world of good. I wish every suffering woman could use this excellent remedy and find out, as I did, just how good it is." As it has helped thousands of others, it surely will do the same for you. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c and $1.00 at all Druggists, H. E. Bucklen & Co. Philadelphia or St. Louis.

Blue Eyes.

(1) There is no safe way of reducing the bust except by diet and exercise, which may reduce the whole body.

(2) Just eat half of what you think you want, and do not eat any fat or starchy foods, candies, pastries, cakes, etc. Drink pure water and never drink with your meals. A strict diet will make you thin, but it is almost impossible for the average person to stick to it.

Household Hint...

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
A bit of charcoal should be kept in the sawing machine drawer to wipe off the machine before beginning to stitch.

To stop a leak, mix whiting and yellow soap into a thick paste with a little water and use.

If you get your rubber boots wet inside, a good way to dry them is to fill them with cornmeal and let them stand in a warm but not hot place.

The outer rough stalks on the bunch of celery are not good to serve green, but they make excellent stewed celery.

THE TABLE.

Baked Sea Bass With Shrimp Sauce.—Clean, wipe and point abundantly, inside and out, with a mixture of salad oil and vinegar. Set on the ice for an hour to let the marinade mellow the fish. Have ready half a pound of iridescent fat pork, cut as thin as shavings. Lay out the bottom of your covered bake pan, put the fish upon them and spread the upper side with the rest. Pour a little hot water in the pan to generate steam, cover and bake one hour. If the fish be large, basting three times with butter and water. Transfer to a hot dish, and set over hot water while you make the sauce.

Shrimp Sauce for Baked Bass.—Strain the gravy left in the pan and stir in a brown roux made by heating a great spoonful of butter in a frying pan and working in a tablespoonful of browned flour. Add four tablespoonfuls of boiling water to the gravy and roux, or enough to bring it to the consistency of cream. Then the juice of half a lemon, cayenne or paprika to taste, half a can of shrimps, chopped fine. Boil one minute, pour some over the fish, the rest into the gravy-boat.

Baked Cabbage.—Boil cabbage tender in two waters. Drain and set aside until cold, then chop fine. Mix together two beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two tablespoonfuls of cream, a saltspoonful of salt and a dash of paprika. Stir this into the chopped cabbage and put it into a buttered pudding dish. Sprinkle bread crumbs over the top and bake until brown.

Oysters Creamed and Baked.—Heat a large spoonful of butter in a clean frying pan, rub in a tablespoonful of flour and stir to a white roux. Remove to the table. Season with salt and white pepper. Have ready pate made or scallop shells arranged in a baking pan, put three or four oysters in each, cover with the white sauce and cook in a quick oven about eight minutes, or until the oysters ruff up. Serve in the shells. The white sauce should be thick as the liquor from the oysters will thin it.

Lobster Croquettes.—Two cupfuls of minced lobster seasoned with paprika, salt and a little mace. One-fourth the quantity of bread crumbs, i. e., about half a cupful. Four tablespoonfuls of cream (with a pinch of soda), and thickened with a teaspoonful of butter rolled in flour. Make a thick paste of the mixture, let it get stiff and cold; make into croquettes, roll in egg and cracker crumbs; set on the ice for an hour; roll again in cracker dust and fry in deep hot fat, which has been heated slowly. Drain, garnish with lemon and parsley and serve.

Milk Frosting.—To ten tablespoonfuls of sweet milk add once six half cupfuls of sugar and boil six minutes. Take from the fire and stir until white. Flavor and spread quickly.

Stewed Celery.—Wash the celery, cut in half-inch bits and stew tender in slightly salted boiling water. Drain this off and add a cupful of milk. Cook for three minutes, stir in a teaspoonful of butter rubbed into a teaspoonful of flour, boil up once, season to taste and serve.

Baked Indian Pudding.—Stir into a cupful of yellow cornmeal a half teaspoonful of salt; pour gradually upon the salted meal two cupfuls of boiling water and heat until free of lumps. Have ready in a large double boiler five cupfuls of milk, and into this stir the scalded meal. Boil for an hour. Whip four eggs very light and into them a gill of molasses, a tablespoonful of melted butter and a quarter of a teaspoonful each of powdered cinnamon and nutmeg. Now remove the boiled meal from the fire and add it very slowly, beating steadily to the egg mixture. Turn all into a deep, greased pudding dish and bake covered for nearly an hour. Uncover and brown. Serve the pudding from the dish in which it was baked. Eat with hard sauce flavored with lemon juice.

Hard Sauce.—Work two tablespoonfuls of butter and a cupful of powdered sugar to a white cream, then beat in the juice of a lemon and a pinch of nutmeg. Set in a cold place until needed.

COULDN'T GET AWAY.

"If there were four flies on the table and I killed one, how many would be left?"

NO RELATION TO HIM.

Father—What's the matter, sonny?
Son—Oh, nothing.
Father—Yes, there is. Tell me all about it. I want to know.
Son—Well, if you must know, I've had a thundering row with your wife.

SALADS FOR HOLIDAYS.

There is no one branch of preparation of food which is given the thought today that salads receive. It we announce a lecture on "Salads and Dressings," we are very sure every seat will be taken. Why is this? It is because a very large number of women like salads to eat, and there is more variety in combinations of fruits and vegetables than in any other dish.

Women like variety and they find it in salads. Most of them are fond of attractive color combinations, and there is no end to this art in salads. Best of all, when well made and appealing to the taste, so it is easy to see why every woman, young or old, wants to know more and more about salads.

Dressings.
There are a few things very essential to good dressing—good, perfectly flavored oil and a fruit or tarragon vinegar, or lemon, grapefruit, sour orange or pineapple and lemon juice. Any of these combine well as in salad for the oil for fruit salads. If made with a French dressing it should be stirred up with a piece of ice and used at once. If a mayonnaise, then half whipped cream should be used.

Grass Fruit and Endive Salad.
Cut three cups of fruit in half crosswise. Remove the pulp and drain.

Cut in two-inch strips French endive in the proportion of one cup of grapefruit to one and one-half cups of endive. Toss all together with French dressing made with orange juice, grapefruit juice and an extra seasoning of paprika. Re-fill the grapefruit shells, put a teaspoonful of pomegranate and a few chopped pistachio nuts over the top and set in a bed of holly leaves on lace paper doilies.

Pear Salad.
There is a very delicious, long, russet pear in the market which is fine for this salad or canned ones may be used, drained and well marinated with lemon and orange juice. Peel and cut down in half, carefully scooping out the seeds, making a deep depression. Fill this with ripe Camembert cheese and lay on white leaves of head lettuce on salad plates.

Serve with French dressing highly seasoned with paprika. Epicures disagree as to the proper dressing for alligator pears. They are rich in fats and are called "butter fruit" in the tropics, where they are eaten with lime juice squeezed over them. Peel and cut down in half, carefully scooping out the seeds, making a deep depression. Fill this with ripe Camembert cheese and lay on white leaves of head lettuce on salad plates.

Fruit Salad.
Materials—Grapefruit, one; oranges, two; white grapes, three-fourths cupful; pecan meats, one-third cupful; head lettuce.
Directions—Cut the grapefruit and oranges in cross sections and free from seeds or membranes. Drain. Skin and seed the grapes and cut the nuts in pieces. Mix and arrange the lettuce leaves, and serve with a mayonnaise dressing which is half whipped cream, juice of half a lemon and two tablespoonfuls of raspberry juice mixed well with it. Pass toasted split French biscuit or rolls.

Heart and Home Problems

FAITH AN ESSENTIAL OF MODERN POLITICS

MILWAUKEE CORRESPONDENT GIVES FEW THOUGHTS ON PRESENT SITUATION.

HOPES WILSON KNOWS

Men Can't Be Blamed For Lack of Comprehension So We Must Take President's Program on Faith.

By Ellis B. Usher.

Milwaukee, Dec. 27.—The middle of the holiday week is not a time to be serious. Every man has the merry air on his face just now and is keeping small record of expenses. That will begin to come next week when stock-taking and taxes begin to loom up in the path and a lot of people will be just a little uneasy then as to what the year's results have been.

President Wilson must be congratulated upon his remarkable success as a political despot, a few years ago we could have called him the smoothest "boss" ever, but that term is obsolete and we have a much more unerring system and every indication that Wilson men generally think they have found something to do with it, which is an interesting development of the ingenuity of our "New Freedom." But I am not inclined to carp, even if I do not understand how free trade principles in wool and steel and the theory of an embargo on commerce can be reversed completely when the government undertakes to deal with money, which has been very correctly called "the lifeblood of commerce."

Few Wilson can make the machine work successfully both ways at once, why God-speed to him, and we will all welcome the accomplishment as evidence that there is real wisdom in such statesmen as our friend "Tom" Morris, and we will all join heartily with Charlie McCarthy and put our fingers to our noses at all such nonsense as "fundamental principles." I am not trying to be funny, nor sarcastic, but in speaking in absolute seriousness in frankly admitting that the scheme does not appear clear or comprehensible to me and I have found few except those who are in the machine to perfect faith, who can give any real explanation it is not easy to criticize what one cannot understand, it is wise therefore not to attempt it. It is easy to understand Mr. Wilson on the tariff and to agree with what he says but to vault backwards into the mazy net of his currency law needs as much confidence as Josh Billings used to say was needed in eating sausage. No man can be seriously blamed for lack of comprehension, so we can all enter the new year with cordiality for Mr. Wilson and the hope that he knows, even as does our own and only McCarthy, just a little less than the angels, and not to believe in somebody, just now, or we may be lost.

Regards to Field.

There are a whole lot of people who will join in the particular time in extending hearty and genuine compliments of the season to Governor Sam. S. Field of Ashland. Despite the fact that he began to teach political ignorance away back in his puppyhood, and has held commissions as postmaster of Ashland for a quarter of a century, he is well reserved and has undoubtedly been buoyed up by his newspaper training and its virtues to shed the deeper wounds of republican politics. He has just quit the postoffice. He has grown land, come and he always was lovely to his friends, which means his whole acquaintance, will be glad to know that he is going to try to redeem his character from political stains by running "Camp Stella" next summer, himself and resigning the affected fever victim from pain and lifting his woes. "Camp Stella" is in the heart of the beautiful Apostle islands, no finer spot on earth. The old newspaper men of the state are liberty to copy and improve upon this notice just as much and as often as they please. This is holiday time, they all ought to feel like it.

Official Changes in the Erie.

The Erie is doing all sorts of things in preparation for the coming season, when it will open its double track system and go after freight business on both hands. The latest announcement is a complete change in the operating organization, which will be effective next Thursday. It is particularly interesting here, because it affects a number of former Wisconsin men. C. Stuart, who was a superintendent of the Erie, has been promoted and then on the Omaha, some years back, and has recently been vice president of the Erie in charge of the operating department has resigned and the position has been abolished. On Mr. Stuart's resignation, it is assumed a new position and title as assistant to the president, with his office in New York. Three grand operating divisions will be established. The Erie grand division, the Chicago grand division and the terminal grand division, the latter to include the steamers on the Great Lakes. These divisions will be in charge of general managers. Henry O. Dunlap will be general manager of the Chicago division, and then S. Parsons of the Erie division. The Ohio division will extend from Salamanca to Chicago, and the Erie division from New York to Salamanca. The general manager of the Erie division will be ranking general manager and will have charge of all through traffic. He will be assisted by a superintendent of transportation. John B. Dickson will be general manager of the Erie division, and Frederick B. Lincoln and William A. Baldwin will be superintendent and assistant superintendent respectively of the Erie division, both newly created positions. E. W. Batchelder, a native of Wisconsin, born at Fall River, and years ago a train dispatcher of the St. Paul road, recently general manager of the Ohio division will become general agent at Janesville, N. Y. President Underwood has a great many Wisconsin men on the Erie, which is one reason the road has so many friends in this state.

Of interest to tax-payers.

It will be of interest to the tax-payers to know that the State Boxing Commission, to which reference was made last week, "is the only self-sustaining commission in the state of Wisconsin." This is quoted from a communication from Assemblyman Redding of this city, to the Sentinel. According to this authority the Boxing Commission has been in service only about three months and turned over $5,000 into the state treasury. This money represents 5 per cent of the gross receipts of every contest held in this state besides the license fee required of every club conducting shows in the state. The commissioners do their work gratis, there being no salary with the office. The secretary receives $1,500 a year, which is not paid him until the receipts are collected by the commission from the boxing shows. This demonstrates why the commission suspended "Packey" McFarland for a year for throwing off. If the state is going to be partner with the boxing ring and share the gate money, why it must see that a fight is a fight.

JACOB JORDI ANSWERS LAST CALL SATURDAY

New Glarus, Dec. 26.—Jacob Jordi, who had been suffering with tuberculosis for some time, died at his home on Saturday night at the age of 67 years. His bereaved wife, two sons and eight daughters survive him. The deceased had been a hard worker by trade and had worked many years here as such. He also served as a soldier in the 45th Wisconsin Volunteer regiment during the civil war. The remains were interred in the cemetery of the Swiss Reformed church Tuesday afternoon. The W. R. C. were in attendance and performed the ritualistic work of the order. Miss Sarah Stuessy of Janesville is here spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Stuessy. CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT AT MILTON IS A SUCCESS

Milton, Dec. 27.—The community Christmas entertainment in the Auditorium Wednesday was a great success. The large crowd, left off the stage was loaded with gifts for the children and beautifully illuminated with electric lights. At the right above where the choir and orchestra were seated was a fine display of the "Merry Christmas" greeting with above the platform in front in beautiful letters he words which showed the true spirit of the occasion "Peace on earth, good will to men, besides feasts of green and red interspersed with holly bells were draped tastily in every available place. The program opened with singing "Joy to the World the Lord is Come," the large audience joining in heartily, led by a choir of the churches. After reading of scripture and prayer by President Daland, the address of welcome was given by Pastor Lundquist in his own happy way. A Christmas hymn was beautifully rendered by the chorus and the main program began, consisting of recitations, drills, duets, Santa Claus plays, etc., and all interspersed with the inspiring music from the two orchestras, who unitedly rendered several selections. The unloading of the tree brought joy and gladness to all the children present. There are lessons which have been learned from this first united effort, one of the most important being that for the most part a spirit of harmony, good fellowship and unity prevails in the village that hardly has equal in any place of its size. One of the things marked we should never have known what a lot of lovely good people we had in the village only for this effort. But it was asked of any one made but it was cheerfully granted. May the spirit of good will continue. J. R. Davidson and wife of Milwaukee spent Christmas with Milton relatives.

Dr. J. M. almer and wife of Grays Lake, Illinois, were Christmas visitors at the Holmes Spaulding home.

HYOMEI RELIEVES IN FIVE MINUTES

Help Comes Quickly When Hyomei Is Used for Catarrh, Bronchitis or Cold in the Head.

If you suffer from raising of mucous, husky voice, discharge from the nose, droppings in the throat, sniffles, or any other symptoms of catarrh, or have bronchitis or cold in the head surely use Hyomei. It will banish the disease germs in the nose, throat and lungs and give quick and permanent relief or money refunded by Smith Drug Co.

The Hyomei treatment gives a tonic healing effect to the air you breathe, destroys the catarrhal germs, stops the poisonous secretions, soothes the irritated mucous membrane and makes a marked improvement in the general health.

ECZEMA ON SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED

Would Fester and Come to Head. Could Not Sleep. Hair Fell Out. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Two Weeks.

R. F. D. No. 2, Seymour, Mo.—"My scalp broke out with fine pimples at the start. They itched and burned so much that I was compelled to scratch them and they would fester and come to a head and break out again. The trouble was attended by such burning and itching I could not sleep, also when I sweat it burned the same. My hair fell out gradually and the scalp kept rough and dry with itching and burning. After about two years the pimples broke out between my shoulders. My clothing irritated them. I was troubled with that eczema five or six years."

"I tried everything that was recommended without any benefit until I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment according to directions and Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me sound and well in two weeks." (Signed) S. L. Kilian, Nov. 22, 1912.

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the face and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Stop "Cussing" Your Tires

Nine Times Out of Ten You're Only Cussing Yourself

IF YOU HAD GIVEN THE TIRE A FAIR CHANCE, VULCANIZED THE CUTS TO KEEP OUT THE MOISTURE, WHICH QUICKLY ROTTS THE FABRIC, AND RENEWED THE TREAD BEFORE THE FABRIC ROTTED, YOU WOULD NOT HAVE TO WASTE SOME SIXTY OR MORE PRECIOUS MINUTES MAKING REPAIRS WHEN YOU OUGHT TO BE SKIMMING ALONG ENJOYING THE BEAUTIFUL DAYS THAT OCCASIONALLY COME ALONG THIS TIME OF YEAR.

Here's the Practical Side of It

A TIRE IS AN EXPENSIVE PROPOSITION. THE RUBBER AND FABRIC IN IT COME TO A GOOD FIGURE AND THE WORK REQUIRED COSTS MONEY. YOU'VE GOT TO PAY SEVERAL PEOPLE A PROFIT WHEN YOU BUY A NEW TIRE AND YOU'VE GOT TO PAY THE ENTIRE COST OF THE TIRE—WHEN YOU

Have a Tire Re-Treaded

ALL YOU HAVE TO PAY FOR IS THE RUBBER AND WORK NECESSARY TO MAKE A NEW WEARING SURFACE—THE LEAST EXPENSIVE PART OF THE TIRE. THAT'S WHY YOU CAN RUN FURTHER ON YOUR TIRE MONEY IF YOU

Let Us Keep Your Tires In "Apple-Pie" Order

BY VULCANIZING THE CUTS, PUTTING IN BLOW-OUT SECTIONS AND RETREADING WHEN YOUR TIRES NEED IT, BY HELPING YOU GET THE FULL VALUE OUT OF YOUR TIRE MONEY, WHICH BRINGS UP ONE MORE IDEA, PERHAPS YOU DON'T KNOW THAT

DR. GODDARD will be at MYERS' HOTEL, JANESVILLE, on TUESDAY, DECEMBER 30th. Consultation Free.

Don't Carry Your Appendix In A Bottle. Keep It Inside Of You Where It Belongs.

80 per cent of all Appendicitis operations are unnecessary. Do not undergo an operation until you have consulted me.

If you have been told that you have appendicitis, gall stones, rupture, gastritis, goitre, or other chronic diseases, in fairness to yourself, come and consult me and let me show you the proof that I have saved from surgical operations.

READ THE FOLLOWING LETTERS and then write to these people and be convinced.

DR. GODDARD SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Martin Bushman of Wrightstown, Wis., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Dear Dr. Goddard:—

In regard to my rupture which you cured two years ago, I am getting along fine. It does not bother me in the least and does not show the least bit. I am as good as I ever was, and it is two years later since I took your treatment. I thank you very much for what you have done for me. I would advise everyone who has a rupture to see you before some one else for they can save lots of trouble and expense.

Yours truly,

MARTIN BUSHMAN, Wrightstown, Wis.

Such proof cannot be manufactured or imitated and no man can offer stronger evidence of his ability and honesty than the written words of those he has cured. If you want to prove this statement write to Mr. Bushman. Perhaps you know him, if so ask him.

Notice I refer you to people right here in this state, not miles away.

SEVERE CASE OF APPENDICITIS CURED WITHOUT OPERATION.

Dr. N. Goddard, 121 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee, Wis.

"Dear Doctor:—I take great pleasure in advising you that I have not had a day of sickness or pain since you finished treating me for appendicitis over a year ago."

"When I recall the suffering that I experienced previous to that time and the money that I wasted in fruitless efforts to find relief, including an expensive trip to the famous French Lick Springs in Indiana, my gratitude for your rapid and complete cure is greater than I can express."

"I firmly believe that I would not be alive today but for your treatment, and I cannot understand how so many people submit to dangerous and painful operations without first consulting you with regard to their condition."

I feel that it is a privilege rather than an obligation to testify as to your skill in curing this terrible disease and I shall always be glad to reply promptly to anyone whom you may refer to me for information as to my recovery. Very sincerely yours—H. B. Jones, 678 Maryland Ave., Milwaukee, Wis."

We are indeed fortunate in having such an able specialist as Dr. Goddard visit our city once a month. Many people here in this city owe their lives to his marvelous power to diagnose disease and once having determined the seat of the trouble effect a cure. Such a specialist treats hundreds of cases of appendicitis, gall stones and rupture, while doctors of general practice treat one and some times none. Naturally a man of Dr. Goddard's ability and experience effects cures that appear to be almost miraculous.

CURED OF GOITRE OF 18 YEARS STANDING.

Marinette, 8-22-10.

Dear Doctor:—

I have a goitre which I had, had for 18 years is entirely gone after treating with you for five months. I had treated with Dr. — and Dr. — of Marinette, a year each without any relief.

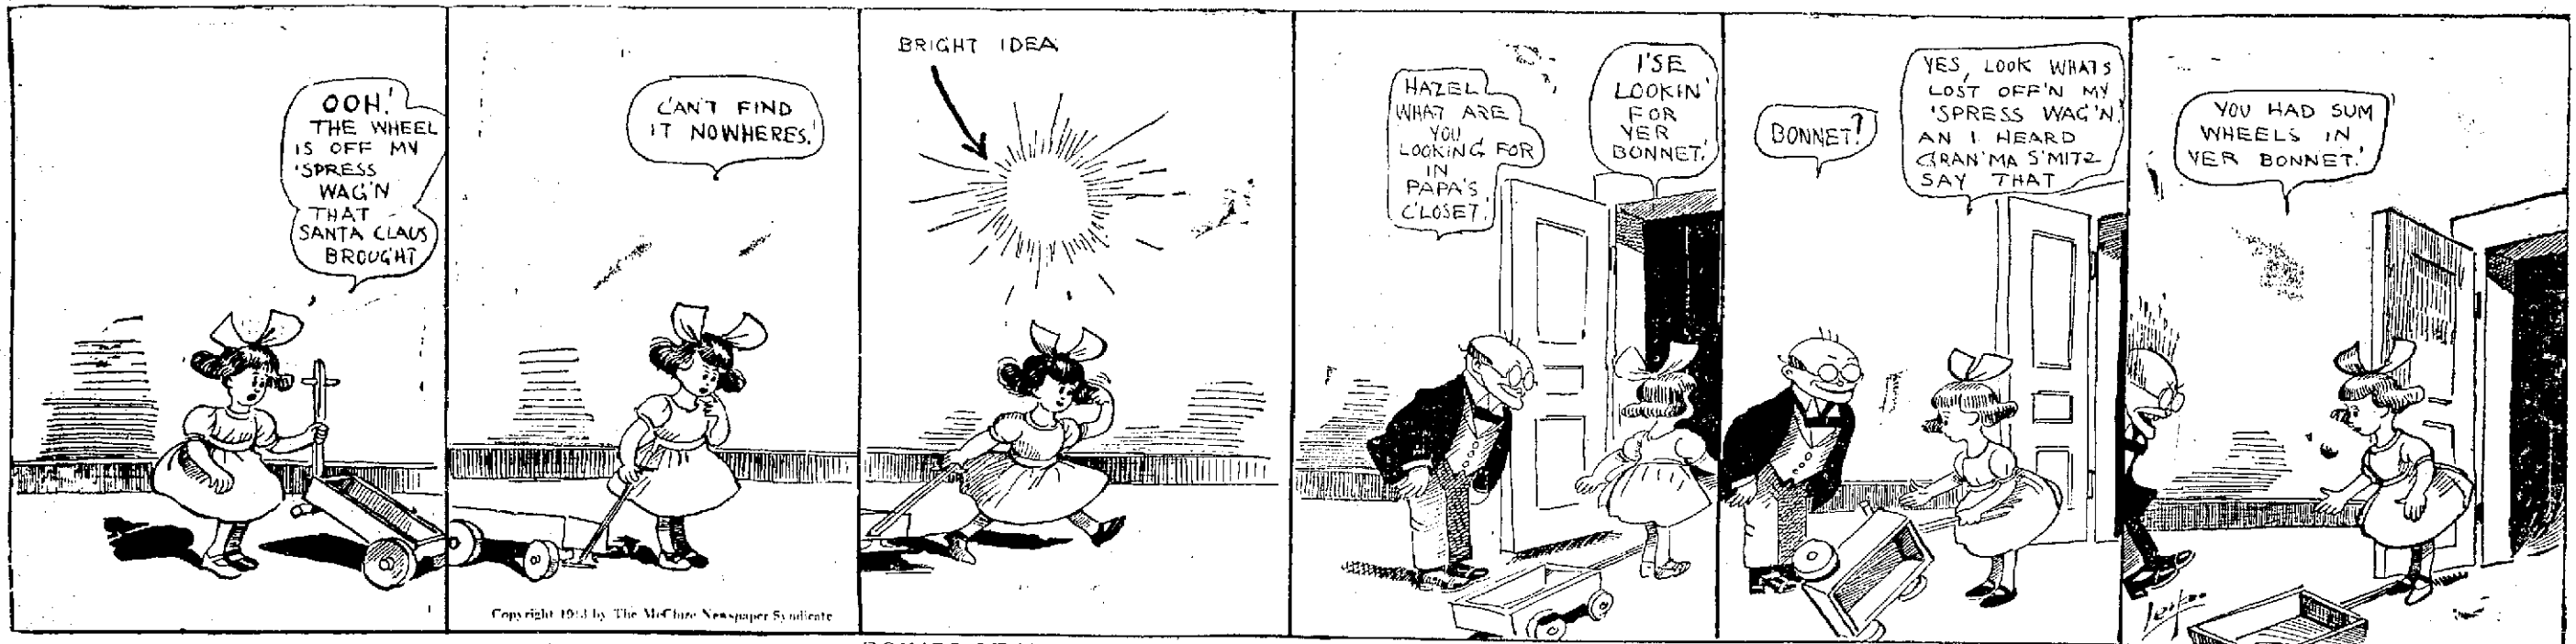

I am also over my female trouble which I had so long. I would not go back as I was for 10 times what it cost me to get well. You will always be my physician in the future.

MRS. MARIA PHILLIPS, R. F. D. No. 2, Marinette, Wis.

I shall again be at Janesville, Tuesday, December 30th, at the Myers Hotel until 1 P. M. Consultation is absolutely free and confidential. If you cannot come write to me for my free book, "Modern Methods of Treating Chronic Disease without Operation." It's yours for the asking. A postal will bring it.

DR. GODDARD, Milwaukee, Specialist, 121 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee, Wis.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—It was rather rude of Grandma Schmitz—

By F. LEIPZIGER

Salt in the Ocean.
It is estimated there are in the world's oceans 7,000,000 cubic miles of salt, and the most astonishing thing about it is that if all the salt could be taken out in a moment the level of the ocean would not drop one single inch.

Make This and Try It for Coughs

This Home-Made Remedy has no Equal for Prompt Results.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 3/4 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. This simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually conquers an ordinary cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, spasmodic croup and bronchitis. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps and eases a cough. This makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and other natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this plan. Making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful mixture has never been equalled. A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

GIVING OUT

The struggle Discourages Many a Citizen of Janesville.

Around all day with an aching back,
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's kidney Pills are helping thousands.
They are for kidney backache;
And other kidney ills.
Here is Janesville proof of their merit:

Mrs. M. Smith, 921 Center St. Janesville, Wis., says: "I suffered severely at times from rheumatic pains and backache. My sides hurt me and sometimes my kidneys were sore. I noticed that my kidneys acted too freely. One of my neighbors told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box at the People's Drug Co. As soon as I began using them I felt better and my kidneys were in much better shape. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly now as I did three years ago when I told how much they did for me. I use Doan's Kidney Pills once in awhile and they live up to all the claims made for them."

For sale by all dealers, Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WITHIN THE LAW

By MARVIN DANA
FROM THE PLAY OF BAYARD VEILLER

Copyright, 1913, by the M. K. Fry company.

"I say yes." The answer was a bellow. "I'm giving you your orders. You will either go to Chicago or you'll go up the river."

"If you can convict me. Pray, notice that little word 'if.'"

The district attorney interposed very suavely:
"I did once, I remember."

"But you can't do it again." Mary declared with an assurance that excited the astonishment of the police official.

"How do you know he can't?" he blustered.

"Because if he could he would have had me in prison some time ago."

"Hubb!" Burke exclaimed gruffly. "I've seen them go up pretty easy."

"The poor ones; not those that have money. I have money, plenty of money—now."

"Money you stole!" the inspector returned brutally.

"Oh, dear, no!" Mary cried with a fine show of virtuous indignation.

"What about the $30,000 you got on that partnership swindle? I s'pose you didn't steal that!"

"Certainly not!" was the ready reply. "The man advertised for a partner in a business sure to bring big and safe returns. We formed a partnership with a capital of $60,000. We paid the money into the bank, and then at once I drew it out. It was legal for me to draw that money—wasn't it, Mr. Demarest?"

The district attorney admitted the truth of her contention.

"Well, anyhow," Burke shouted, "you may stay inside the law, but you've got to get outside the city. On the level, now, do you think you could get away with that young Gilder scheme you've been planning?"

"What young Gilder scheme?"

"Oh, I'm wise—I'm wise!" the inspector cried roughly. "The answer is, once for all, leave town this afternoon or you'll be in the Tombs in the morning."

"It can't be done, inspector."

Mary opened a drawer of the desk and took out the document obtained that morning from Harris and held it forth.

"What's this?" Burke stormed, but he took the paper.

Demarest looked over the inspector's shoulder, and his eyes grew larger as he read. When he was at an end of the reading he regarded the passive woman at the desk with a new respect.

"What's this?" Burke repeated helplessly. Mary was kind enough to make the document clear to him.

"It's a temporary restraining order from the supreme court instructing you to let me alone until you have legal proof that I have broken the law."

"But it can't be done," shouted Burke.

"You might ask Mr. Demarest," Mary suggested pleasantly, "as to whether or not it can be done. The gambling houses can do it and so keep on breaking the law. The race track men can do it and laugh at the law. The railroad can do it to restrain its employees from striking. So why shouldn't I get one too? You see, I have money. I can buy all the law I want. And there's nothing you can't do with the law if you have money enough. Ask Mr. Demarest. He knows."

"Can you beat that?" Burke rumbled. He regarded Mary with a stare of almost reverential wonder. "A crook appealing to the law!"

"Well, gentlemen, what are you going to do about it?"

"Miss Turner," the district attorney said, with an appearance of sincerity. "I'm going to appeal to your sense of fair play."

years—three years for something I didn't do. Well, he's got to pay for it." By this time, Burke, a man of superior intelligence, as one must be to reach such a position of authority, had come to realize that here was a case not to be carried through by blustering, by intimidation, by the rough ruses familiar to the force.

"Don't fool yourself, my girl," he said in his huge voice, which was now modulated to a degree that made

"Well, gentlemen, what are you going to do about it?"

It almost unfamiliar to himself. "You can't go through with this. There's always a weak link in the chain somewhere. It's up to me to find it, and I will."

"Now," she said, and there was respect in the glance she gave the stalwart man, "now you really sound dangerous."

Fannie appeared at the door. "Mr. Edward Gilder wishes to see you, Miss Turner," she said. "Shall I show him in?"

"Oh, certainly," Mary answered, with an admirable pretense of indifference, while Burke glared at Demarest, and the district attorney appeared ill at ease.

CHAPTER XI. Gilder Meets Bride.

THERE entered the erect, heavy figure of the man whom Mary had hated through the years. He stopped abruptly just within the room, gave a glance at the two men, then his eyes went to Mary, sitting at her desk, with her face lifted inquiringly. He did not pause to take in the beauty of that face, only its strength. He stared at her silently for a moment. Then he spoke, a little tremulous from anxiety.

"Are you the woman?" he said. There was something simple and primitive, something of dignity beyond the usual conventions, in his direct address.

Mary's acknowledgment was as plain as his own question.

"I am the woman. What do you want?"

"My son."

Mary guessed that his coming was altogether of his own volition, and not the result of his son's information, as at first she had supposed.

"Have you seen him recently?"

"No."

"Then, why did you come?"

"Because I intend to save my boy from a great folly. I am informed that he is infatuated with you, and Inspector Burke tells me—why—he tells me—why—he tells me—He paused, unable for a moment to continue from an excess of emotion.

Inspector Burke filled the halting sentence.

"I told you she had been an ex-convict."

"Yes," Gilder said, after he had regained his self control. He stared at her pleadingly. "Tell me, is this true?"

Here, then, was the moment for which she had longed through weary days, through weary years. Here was the man whom she hated, suppliant before her to know the truth. Her heart quickened. Truly, vengeance is sweet to one who has suffered unjustly.

"Is this true?" the man repeated, with something of horror in his voice.

"It is," Mary said quietly.

you how easy it is for me to get it." "Do you want my son to learn what you are?" he said.

"Why not? I'm ready to tell him myself."

Then Gilder showed his true heart in which love for his boy was before all else.

"But I don't want him to know," he stammered. "Why, I've spared the boy all his life. If he really loves you—it will!"

At that moment, the son himself entered hurriedly. In his eagerness he saw no one save the woman he loved. At his entrance, Mary rose and moved backward a step involuntarily, in sheer surprise over his coming.

The young man went swiftly to her, while the other three men stood silent. Dick took Mary's hand, in a warm clasp, pressed it tenderly.

"I didn't see father," he said happily, "but I left a note on his desk at the office."

Then, somehow, the surcharged atmosphere penetrated his consciousness, and he looked around, to see his father standing grimly opposite him. But there was no change in his expression beyond a more radiant smile.

"Hello, dad!" he cried, joyously. "Then you got my note?"

"No, Dick, I haven't had any note." The young man spoke with simple pride.

"Dad, we're married. Mary and I were married this morning."

Mary kept her eyes steadfast on the father. There was triumph in her gaze. This was the vengeance for which she had longed, for which she had plotted, the vengeance she had at last achieved. Here was her fruition, the period of her supremacy.

Gilder seemed dazed by the brief sentence.

"Say that again," he commanded.

"Dad, Mary and I were married this morning."

"I married your son this morning," Mary said in a matter of fact tone. "I married him. Do you quite understand, Mr. Gilder? I married him. In that insistence lay her ultimate compensation for untold misery. The father stood there wordless, unable to find speech against this calamity that had befallen him.

"Are you the woman?"

"It's a frameup!" Burke roared. He glared at the young man. "Tell your father it ain't true. Why, do you know what she is? She's done time!"

He paused for an instant, then spoke in a voice that was brutally menacing. "And she'll do it again!"

The young man turned toward his bride. There was disbelief, hope, despair, in his face.

"It's a lie, Mary," he said. "Say it's a lie!" He seized her hand passionately.

"It is the truth," Mary said firmly. "I have served three years in prison."

There was a silence of a minute that was like years.

Dick turned his tortured face to his bride of a day. Then he spoke again more beseechingly.

"Say there's a mistake."

Mary spoke with a simplicity that admitted no denial.

What article of wearing apparel?

"Dad, Mary and I were married this morning."

"It's all quite true."

The man who had so loved her, trusted her, stood trembling for a moment, tottered and sank into a chair.

The father looked at Mary with a reproach that was pathetic.

"See," he said, and his heavy voice was for once thin with passion—"see what you've done to my boy!"

"What is that compared to what you have done to me?"

"What have I done to you?" he questioned, unconprehending.

Dinner Stories

There is a dainty little moving picture actress who lives in a California town with her mother and who has no attention of changing her lot.

At a recent reception a certain young man about town paid marked attention to this little lady, much to her disgust. At last he said: "My dear, I would go to the end of the earth for you."

"By Jove, I had a narrow escape yesterday!" How?

"Well, four of us were lunching together, and, of course—you know how one has to on that sort of occasion—we each insisted on stumping up and paying the bill."

"Yes," remarked his friend, "but that about that narrow escape?"

"That's just it. For a minute or two it looked very much as though I'd overplayed the game and the other three really were going to leave me with that bill to pay."

In a breathing space between important dances, the regular dancing men stood in the smoking room and puffed at cigarettes. And the awkward idiot gathered to himself as many as he could, in order that he might relate his troubles.

"I say, are you chaps having a good time at this dance?" he began. The young men politely protested that they were having the time of their young lives.

"But the girls," continued the bore. "I can't think what's coming over the girls of this generation. Why, they have no endurance, no stamina, no backbone!"

"What makes you think so?" sighed the athlete with the wilted collar.

"Why, they can't stand the pace. Out of seven of my partners tonight five have asked if they may sit out their dances with me!"

Modern Journalism.

Newspaper men were to be excluded from a famous trial. "That's good," one of them remarked. "I hate to be hampered by facts in writing up a case of this kind."

CLASSIFIED WANT AD?

A woman who mends beautifully and darns as well as complaining the other day about her scarcity of cash. "If there was only something that I could do to increase my income without going out, leaving my home each day, I'd be delighted to do it," she said to a neighbor who had run in for a few minutes' talk.

"Why don't you run a card in your home paper to the effect that you will do fine mending and darning; it will take some time to get a little trade worked up, but you will have an income started, and if you keep persistently at it, you can make it grow," said the neighbor.

The home women all over the country are earning money at home, so why not you?" Gentle reader, this little sketch is written in the hope that it may help you to help yourself; that is, if you wish to earn at home. Do you? If so, why not start today?
